SIDETRACK ALL PROPOSALS ON LABOR DRAFT

Congressmen Expected To Get No Recommendations From White House.

UNION HEADS HIT PLAN

Sen. Hill Says Some Action To Mobilize Nation Will Be Inevitable.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The administration was reported reliably today to have decided to sidetrack indefinitely proposals for the compulsory mobilization of manpower

Congressional leaders, who had expected shortly after next Tuesday's elections to receive a pattern from which legislation could be cut to fit the nation's workers into the wartime production machine, were said to have been informed that no White House recommendation would be forthcoming for some time.

In the absence of such a recommendation, sponsors conceded privately it would be next to impossible to obtain action on a half dozen or more manpower bills pending before congressional committees.

However, Senator Hill (D-Ala.), author of a bill that would give President Roosevelt broad authority to say where a man or woman should work, told reporters he would press for speedy action by the senate military committee on his and several other measures.

"I think it is inevitable that we are going to have legislation which will mobilize all of our citizens for the war effort and which will direct them into the job they can do best," Hill said.

Opposition by labor leaders either to the "freezing" of workers in their jobs or government action transferring them from one field to another was said to have contributed to the decision to delay consideration of compulsory measures of the sort urged publicly by Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower commission

The commission's action in directing local selective service boards to defer workers on dairy, livestock and poultry farms promised little or no relief to farmers who already have lost their hired hands to the armed services or to more highly paid industrial jobs

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said there remained enough sugar beets in the ground in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio to produce 200,000,000 pounds of processed sugar but workers could not be obtained to harvest them.

Price Asks Ample News About War

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Byron Price, director of censorship says that "unless ample war news is given out by the government, our voluntary undertaking with the press and radio will collapse."

Price declared last night at a New York Times forum that "if the curtain is drawn to tightly, if official secrecy leads to widespread distrust and apprehension among the people I doubt seriously whether newspapers and broadcasters will be so willing to cooperate in bottling up the news which always comes to them through their own outside sources"

Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information told the audience, which included government and news executives, that all sinkings of Major U S naval vessels had been announced

Davis said a full account of the Pearl Harbor attack was being readied for publication on its anniversary and would show that Navy Secretary Knox's announcements of ships lost were true.

The enemy he said, has been far more secretive about losses than this country.

Drawings For December Not To Be as Great as Current Month, Clerks Told.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Reduction of the furlough period for army inductees from two weeks to one week, effective about Nov. 1, was announced by Secretary of War Stimson today. Result of the new plan will be the induction each month of four groups of inductees instead of two.

Men who were married before the United States entered the war last Dec. 8 but who have no children are expected to make up nearly half of the Richland county draft quota for December, clerks of the county's three boards said today.

Boards received the "go" sign on induction of married men yesterday from Lieut Col Carl G. Wahl, chief of the state selective service manpower division

Only Board 2 in Mansfield of the three in Richland county will not have to draw heavily on married men to meet the December quota which is below those for October and November.

Board 1 in Mansfield will fill about half of its December quota from the ranks of married men, Clerk Todd Patton estimated. Board 3, serving the rural districts and Shelby will use "some married men," it was said.

Bryan Sivert, clerk of Board 2, said his board would call "very few if any" married men in December The board's comparative-

Asks Ohio Drivers To Get Rationing Forms In Advance

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Harry T Beckmann Ohio director for the Office of Price Administration, today urged Ohio's motorists to obtain gasoline rationing applications forms in advance "so you can register in a minute or two"

The forms will be available at most Ohio gasoline stations garages and auto clubs by Saturday, Beckmann said Much of the information required in application forms, he pointed out, is contained in auto license registrations Serial numbers of the five tires the motorist expects to retain also must be included

"Those who feel they are eligible for allotments in addition to the basic amount (four gallons a week) can obtain additional forms at registration points," he explained.

Registration for gasoline rationing, scheduled to start Nov. 22, will be conducted in about the same manner as was sugar registration, with schools generally being selected as the sites

Witches, Hobgoblins Parade Down Town Tomorrow Night

Witches, hobgoblins and an array of other weird characters will abound in Mansfield Friday night when the city forgets the grim business of war for a moment to celebrate Halloween in the old-fashioned way.

Festivities will get underway at 7.30 p. m. with a mardi gras parade starting from the American Legion home headed by the Legion Drum corps and its new unit of majorettes Everybody is ugred to mask and join in the parade that will be climaxed in Central park by the awarding of $150 in prizes and dancing in the street, weather permitting.

It will be as much like the Halloween celebrations that the late Fred Hunt, news stand proprietor, sponsored in Mansfield for 30 years, as his widow, Mrs. Ada Hunt, and Earl McVey post of the American Legion can make it and the affair will be given a patriotic fervor by the downtown selling of war savings stamps and bonds.

Legionnaires will man the sales booths including one at Hunt's news stand which will be serenaded for a half-hour by the drum corps before the parade in memory of the man who made 'Help Hunt Halloween" a traditional slogan in Mansfield

Prizes ranging from $5 to $20 will be awarded for costumes and floats and the judging will be handled by a committee of three including C. O. Lister, commander of McVey post; Louis J. Thern of The News-Journal and Eddie Mason, another Legionnaire.

McVey post is opening the Legion home for dancing and the light fantastic will be tripped both there and in Central park.

Soviets Claim Big Victory for Stalingrad's Defenders.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — The Soviet press today credited the defenders of Stalingrad with inflicting "the greatest German defeat since the winter defeat at Moscow" and in the Caucasus Red army troops drove forward in a blizzard to find Nazi troops frozen to death in their dugouts

Reports from the Caucasus said the mountains were now many feet deep with snow and that temperatures were "far below zero"

It was announced, however, that Soviet forces had again fallen back in the vicinity of Nalchik, 50 miles southwest of Mozdok.

(The German high command said Rumanian and German Alpine troops captured Nalchik.)

On the Stalingrad front Soviet drives northwest and south of the city bent back the German flanks and inside the battered industrial center Nazi frontal attacks were beaten off.

The Germans were reported to have brought up a fresh tank division and attacked a northern factory district again with four infantry and two tank divisions—possibly 75,000 men—but they advanced only 100 or 200 yards it was said, losing about five battalions in the operation—approximately 4,000 to 5,000.

Northeast of the Tuapse naval base in the western Caucasus, temperatures were far below zero, dispatches said. The Germans were using ski and sled detachments in frantic efforts to reach the warmer coast of the Black sea before the blizzard froze them, or made the mountains completely impassable

Snow, often waist deep, already

Foe Loses Heavily In Battles But Gets More Men In Landings.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—New Japanese attacks against American position around the Guadalcanal airfield were anticipated today despite "very heavy losses" inflicted on enemy troops and equipment.

The Japanese were believed still to have a strong force on the island They were reported to have massed 20,000 men on Guadalcanal before undertaking their offensive last week, and reinforcements have landed since then.

The strength of American forces is a military secret. But navy fliers in Pearl Harbor, just returned from Guadalcanal, emphasized that marine corps and army units there are outnumbered and under-supplied. Naval officials here have admitted that the navy is outnumbered, too.

The navy had virtually nothing to add to the running battle for control of the Solomons in its communique—No. 172—yesterday—only that on Monday night (Sunday night, Washington time) the Americans repulsed several small-scale enemy thrusts on Guadalcanal.

"No report of any other action in the Solomon islands area has been received since the issuance of navy department communique No 171," the navy said No. 171 was released Tuesday night here and reported action through Monday night (island time).

It is Friday on Guadalcanal now, island time being almost a full day ahead of Eastern War Time. The navy's communiques brings the all-out battle which started last Friday up to Monday night (island time). Thus,

REPULSED: Axis Drive Beaten Off by British In Desert War

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—Four more Messerschmitt-109 fighters have been shot down by United States fighters in continuing large-scale operations against the enemy over the Egyptian battle line, a United States communique announced today.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—British headquarters announced today that the Eighth army had beaten off an Axis counter-attack in the Egyptian desert and reported continuing air attacks on enemy supply lines and bases, including Crete.

Further losses were reported inflicted on Field Marshal Rommel's forces in a series of minor tank engagements yesterday.

'Fighting continues" the bulletin added tersely, but gave no further details.

The Axis air force was said to have remained on the defensive throughout yesterday as Allied planes smashed at enemy landing fields and forward positions.

Allied night fighters also carried out protective patrols over the front and shot down one Junkers 88 headquarters said

Nine enemy fighters in all were reported destroyed during the day in the Mediterranean theater

The attack on Crete, carried out by night was said to have set fires at an enemy airdrome.

Allied torpedo-carrying aircraft were credited with sinking a large enemy tanker bound for North Africa last night.

"Enemy activity over Malta was ineffective and reduced in scale," the bulletin said.

From the tone of the communique it seemed evident that the army of the Nile, bent on inflicting the maximum possible damage to the enemy at a minimum cost, was maintaining the cautious but determined pace of its land of-

APPEAL: M'Arthur Word Seen As Call for Unified Command

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Mounting protest against a divided command in the South Pacific appeared headed today for climactic action by what was regarded in some quarters as an appeal from Gen. Douglas MacArthur for unified direction over the entire embattled area

Answering a newspaper report attributing the two separate commands in the Pacific chiefly to "political Washington," and a "MacArthur for-president campaign" the 62-year-old leader of United Nations forces in Australia disavowed any "political ambitions whatsoever."

From his headquarters last night MacArthur declared that any contrary suggestion "must be regarded as merely amiable gestures of goodwill dictated by friendship."

"I started as a soldier and I shall finish as one," he said. "The only hope and ambition I have in the world is for victory for our cause in the war."

This, topping demands from capitol hill for better teamwork in the Pacific war theater, was interpreted by some sources here as at least an indirect appeal to eliminate any political considerations that might be hampering his direction of the war effort in that part of the world.

The congressional protests became more vocal this week after Vice Admiral Robert H. Ghormley was replaced as commander of the Southern Pacific area embracing the Solomon islands by Vice Admiral William H. Halsey.

Texan Reads Item of Award To Himself in Paper In Australia.

(By International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —News travels slowly in Pacific combat zones, as Captain John Randolph, of Schertz, Texas, can authoritatively testify.

Randolph, who has been on duty on the North Australian battlefront since he came to Australia from the Philippines in late March, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross by General Douglas MacArthur for conspicuous aerial gallantry during the evacuation of air corps personnel from Bataan and Corregidor.

The award was made in April

Randolph discovered he'd been decorated this week when he arrived in an Australian city on leave.

The item was contained in an April newspaper which he chanced to be reading.

Randolph, incidentally, trained one of the most typical of Australian wild animals into a friendly household pet. His loyal kangaroo which Randolph captured wild and carefully schooled, was the mascot for the American fighter squadron operating in Northwest Australian skies.

Wounded Veteran Serves Country On Draft Board

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Although Herbert Grant Hahn lost his right arm and leg as a result of wounds suffered in the first World war, he has found a means of serving his country again in this one.

The 42-year-old World war veteran, who was wounded in the battle of Chateau Thierry, has been named a member of selective service board No. 12 of Franklin county.

Hahn was serving with the 166th U. S. infantry of the Rainbow division on July 29, 1918 when he was struck by a high explosive shell. His arm was amputated almost immediately, his leg about seven months later.

Hahn had run away from Bellefontaine high school to join the army at 17.

Find New Street Lamp for Use In War Blackouts

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. —(INS)— Electrical engineers are conducting successful experiments with a new type street lamp to solve the blackout lighting problem.

The "Blackout Luminaire," which sheds a brilliant downward light without contributing to skyglow, was described to delegates attending a war-time conference of lighting experts, sponsored by the General Electric company.

An engineer compared the rays of the device as similar to the illumination given off by brilliant stars on a clear night.

The lamp, he said, emits just enough light to enable persons to detect moving or stationary objects; but is so carefully regulated that not one ray escapes skyward.

WEEKLY AWARDS

FIRST AWARD . . . $25 CASH
SECOND AWARD . . $10 CASH
THIRD AWARD . . . . $5 CASH
10 AWARDS . . (each) $1 CASH

Here's All You Do To WIN!

On the front page of the News-Journal each day, there appears a list of merchants. They are divided into three groups which are: Large Ads, Medium Ads, and Small Ads. Those are the ads to be checked in that day's News-Journal. All you do is select one ad from each group. Make your selections on the basis of "which ads will do the merchants the most good?"

Your selections are then written on the Community Survey Answer Form shown at the right. That's all you do to be eligible for the awards. Everyone can enter. The Community Survey is being conducted for 13 weeks. You may send in an entry every week if you like. But, don't wait! Enter this interesting survey now. You may find it very profitable to you.

COMMUNITY SURVEY ANSWER FORM

(Copyright, 1941, Wid Gunning)

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

	LARGE ADS	MEDIUM ADS	SMALL ADS
Sun.
Mon.
Tues.
Wed.
Thurs.
Fri.
Sat.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

PREDICTS MORE GAUDY CLOTHES FOR U. S. MEN

But Fashion Editor Declares Uniforms Will Still Be Tops In Male Styles.

By BETTY PRYOR
(UP Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The war is bound to make every man a dude, according to the coat and suit boys.

Despite the WPB's restrictions on cuffs, drape shapes and other fancy touches, the war will break down the male animal's hidebound complacency toward his wardrobe and substitute a legion of clothes horses, predicted O. E. Schoeffler, magazine fashion editor, to a congress of gents' furnishing buyers at the Merchandise Mart.

Schoeffler figures the fashion revolution, already rumbling in increased sales of men's clothing this year over 1941, will come about like this:

Take the car away from the man and you deflate his ego. When, because of gas rationing, he no longer can impress the girls and step up his feeling of power with a red roadster a man's only recourse is to become an Esquire model.

Put the ladies bethind the counters, as the manpower shortage increases, and man will walk out of the shops with a matched ensemble.

Man, the clothing congress agreed, will not be able to resist and women, with their sense of color and passion for ensembling, will gradually improve masculine taste.

Increase the number of service men and the civilian male, Schoeffler prophesied, will be forced to spruce up his wardrobe to an alarming degree to gain a speck of attention.

But no matter how hard the home-front man tries to compete with the uniforms for the lady's eye, the congress allowed that the service man will win hands down the title of "America's best dressed man of 1942."

CHINA FLIER TO HELP AT BASE

American, Shot Twice By Japs, Will Serve as Inspector at Lockbourne.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — A former taxicab driver, who has been twice shot down while a captain in the Chinese air force and personally decorated by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek for bravery, has come back to Columbus to contribute his experience and technical knowledge to the operation of the Lockbourne air base.

In 1927, 38-year-old Milton E. Howard was piloting a taxicab about Columbus streets. Twelve years later, he was piloting an old Curtiss observation plane over the city of Hong Kong. Twice he miraculously escaped death when machine gun bullets from Jap fighter planes struck him and sent his ship plunging earthward.

Howard a graduate of Carnegie Tech, went to China as a radio engineer for Pan-American airways in 1935, after helping set up their bases at Midway, Wake, Guam, Manila and Canton.

When the Japs made their foray into China in 1936, Howard offered his services to the Chinese government. He was accepted as a supervisor of education for the government flying school at Canton, and about a year later was put in charge of the school at Hong Kong as instructor in aerial gunnery and commissioned a captain in the Chinese air force.

One day in February, 1939, Howard was at the controls of a Curtiss observation plane whose only "weapon" was an aerial camera manned by a Chinese student when two Jap fighters attacked his ship. A 25-caliber machine gun bullet struck him on one side of the head and emerged from the other, but somehow the bullet left his brain uninjured and eight weeks later he was back on duty.

A few weeks later he was attacked by another Jap plane and brought down again. This time the bullet pierced his stomach and groin and again his student took over the controls and landed the plane.

Another six weeks in a hospital and Howard was up again. It was then that he was decorated by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek.

At the Lockbourne air base, he will be technical post inspector in charge of inspecting all records, material, supplies and equipment. Howard is now a master sergeant in Uncle Sam's air corps, which is far better, he says, than being a captain in the Chinese air force.

Women On Trial for Treason

Here are the three women on trial in Chicago, accused of treason in connection with the saboteur plot which was uncovered several months ago and which was climaxed with the electrocution of six of eight accused men. The women are Mrs. Kate Weigin, Mrs. Erna Haupt and Mrs. Lucille Froehling friends and relatives of Herbert Haupt, one of the Nazi saboteurs electrocuted for his crime. Star witness at the trial of the three women and their husbands is Ernest Peter Burger, convicted with the other saboteurs last summer but given a life sentence instead of the death penalty.

ARMY WIFE SAVES SHIP

LONDON—(AP)—Credit for saving a ship at sea goes to Mrs. Brenda Tavmer, 19-year-old wife of an army radio operator. She was helping her husband study his signal code by listening to the radio with him. She heard an S.O.S., notified authorities and the vessel was saved.

SOVIETS CLAIM GREAT VICTORY AT STALINGRAD

Report Finding Frozen Nazis In Advance Through Caucasus Blizzard.

filled passes and deep gorges, the Communist party organ Pravda said. Avalanches periodically thundered down the mountain sides.

Soviet ski troops, muffled in heavy furs, were reported counter-attacking, and dispatches said they already had thwarted a further penetration toward the Black sea northeast of Tuapse.

At one point, the Russians were reported to have split German and Rumanian forces, captured a strategic height, killed hundreds of enemy troops, and captured much booty and many prisoners.

At Stalingrad, where the weather was verging on winter and just such blizzards as those sweeping the western Caucasus, the Russians threw back an attack by 1,000 Nazis and killed more than 100.

But in the eastern Caucasus, around Nalchik, 50 miles southwest of Mozdok, the Soviet high command reported the second setback in 24 hours.

(The Germans claimed today that Rumanian forces had captured Nalchik.)

The Germans were attacking with 2,000 to 3,000 troops, supported by tanks, planes and artillery in the Nalchik region, on individual sectors in a narrow valley. Reinforcements enabled the Germans to push back the Russians again today, the Soviet noon communique acknowledged.

The Germans had tried for three months to drive from the Terek valley, east of Mozdok, to the nearby Grozny oil fields and Ordzhonikidze. They failed in the Terek valley and now had turned toward Nalchik, evidently hoping to find easier going toward the same objectives.

(The Germans also reported deep snow in the Mozdok area of the eastern Caucasus.)

The noon communique indicated that ferocious German assaults against an industrial area in northern Stalingrad had slackened, if only momentarily, from the weight of losses.

Northwest of Stalingrad, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's relief offensive advanced toward Stalingrad foot by foot over stubbornly defended German trenches and pillboxes.

U. S. Gun Crew Bags Nazi Torpedo Plane

A UNITED KINGDOM PORT (Delayed)—(AP)—A U. S. merchant ship gun crew which included an Ohioan bagged a Nazi torpedo plane which sank their vessel as 40 planes attacked a convoy bound for Soviet Russia, a naval ensign reported.

In his story written exclusively for the Associated Press, Ensign Kenneth W. Tipping, 23, of Maywood, N. J., told how the crew brought down the raider. Kenneth Moore of Portsmouth was a member of the crew.

"Our convoy was well under way and although Nazi reconnaissance planes had been circling overhead for two days, we didn't realize what was in store for us until two of our ships were torpedoed on a chill Sunday morning," Tipping wrote.

"The plane that got us came in on the starboard beam and let go two torpedoes. I can look back on that moment with some consolation, though, because I am convinced we knocked down that plane."

Applying for help at the Salvation Army.

SALVATION ARMY, CHINA RELIEF WORTHY WAR CHEST AGENCIES

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on the agencies participating in funds collected in the Community War Chest campaign in Mansfield and Richland county. Each of the articles will deal with one Community Fund organization at home, and one War Chest agency. A 'Commando' army of 500 starts Nov. 9 on its objective of raising $140,377.)

SALVATION ARMY

An agency which is budgeted to receive $6,350 from the Community War Chest is the Salvation Army which, among a host of other activities, provides the only place in Mansfield where neglected or abandoned children receive a temporary home and care.

In addition to its work of family relief, the Salvation Army carries on religious activities, conducts a school for the blind and a general recreation program.

So far this year, there has been a total attendance of 9,151 youths and 6,157 adults at religious activities. The blind school has 22 members. To this group it has served 945 meals and attendance at recreation programs totals 837.

There has been an attendance of 397 at recreation programs sponsored for boys and 164 for girls.

In serving as a detention home, the Salvation Army has cared for 107 boys and girls over a period of 279 days which entailed the serving of 661 meals.

In its family relief department, the Salvation Army report shows 348 families were given aid; 290 articles of furniture distributed; 4,883 garments furnished; 719 pairs of shoes distributed; and 9,300 loaves of bread distributed.

For transient relief, the Army provided 1,845 meals: 1,336 free lodgings, 352 garments, 53 pairs of shoes, and provided transportation for 14 persons.

CHINA RELIEF

With increasing need resulting from the widening theater of the war with Japan, and because its sources of foreign support are decreasing, China has been allotted $7,000,000 as a War Chest budget, and, of this, the Richland county War Chest is expected to provide $4,697.

Importance of aid to China is doubly so because aid given China will help China carry on the war with Japan for China's advantage and to the advantage of our own nation.

A veritable "American Expeditionary Force" of doctors, medical missionaries, educators and others, with long experience in China, is available for, and some are actually carrying out, the administration of many phases of relief and rehabilitation work in China. War Chest funds will help bring about the needed more extensive assistance.

Supported by the China Relief fund is a contingent of Americans and Chinese in Chungking who are experienced in relief administration. It is equipped and prepared to provide most careful supervision of whatever relief is distributed among the people of that war-torn country.

Helping save lives of Chinese children.

Intestinal Epidemic Claims 20th Victim At Cleveland.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Death of another baby at St. Luke's hospital from acute intestinal diarrhea today raised the total of babies dead in the epidemic to 20, with 12 still on the sick list.

Dr. Harold J. Knapp, city health commissioner, said he believed the ailment was under control since no new cases had developed since isolation measures were taken two weeks ago.

SECOND MOBILIZATION CALL SOUNDED FOR DISASTER GROUP

Call for the second mobilization of the disaster preparedness and relief committee of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross Monday, Nov. 2, went out from chapter headquarters today upon the request of the national organization.

Advised that Miss Thelma Welch, disaster field representative for the eastern Red Cross area would be in the city Monday to meet with disaster units Robert Black, committee chairman, and Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary, have made plans for two meetings as designated by national headquarters.

All but one of the 10 subcommittees handling rescue, shelter, food, clothing, medical aid and other phases of disaster relief will mobilize at 4:30 p. m. at the executive offices, 11½ West Fourth street. A special meeting will be held at 2 p. m. for the committee on information and intake headed by Mrs. Louis J. Ott.

Miss Welch will speak at both sessions, discussing the responsibilities of each unit and acquainting members with the type of work they will be called to do in the case of an emergency.

She has been closely associated with Red Cross disaster service since 1936 and has worked in numerous floods and tornado areas since the first of this year. She saw service following the March tornado in Tennessee, the May flood in Texas, and the recent flash floods in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Miss Welch is a graduate of Chicago university school of social service and for two years was dietitian for Walter Reed hospital, a veterans' institution, Washington, D. C.

Notification of the mobilization has been sent to all committee chairmen who will in turn inform their members of the call. The first rally was held in Septemebr when manuals, arm bands and identification cards were distributed.

LOWER TRAIL CONTINUED BY STOCK MARKET

Bank Clearings For Past Week Disclose Sharp Decline, According to Survey.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market continued its irregularly lower journey in today's early dealings.

Declines of fractions were posted for General Motors, Chrysler, General Electric, Texas Co. and Loew's. Up a shade were American Telephone and Goodrich.

In the search for trend clues boardrooms scanned the Dun & Bradstreet survey which disclosed a sharp drop in the country's bank clearings during the week ended Wednesday.

Attention was given the compilation of the Engineering News-Record which placed this week's heavy construction awards at 1 per cent greater than in the like period a year ago.

Ohio Pensions to Reach All-Time High Next Month

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio's old age pension payments will reach an all-time high in November, Karl R. Babb, chief of the division of aid for the aged, estimated today.

He predicted grants would average approximately $26.94 — 13 cents more than October when a previous high was established — and that payments would exceed the record total of $3,800,000 awarded 138,705 pensioners this month.

Adjustments were made on the basis of need to help recipients meet increased living costs and the average probably will be upped to $27 by the end of the year, he asserted.

"The aid for aged payments which our office has certified for November payment," the pension chief declared, . . . can thus stand as an answer to persons who, deliberately malicious or ignorant of the facts, have been issuing statements that grants which were increased during October would be reduced next month."

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat, charged last week that the division had manipulated pension payments for political purposes. He said October payments were boosted and he had evidence November awards would be decreased.

COUNCILMEN ARE ONLY ONES HIT

Attorney General Rules on Office Forfeiture Under Draft.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A state supreme court decision holding a member of a city council automatically forfeits his office on entering the armed service of the United States does not apply to most other elective offices, the attorney general's office said today.

A specific statute setting forth the qualifications of a councilman, the basis of the court's unanimous decision, provides that a councilman "shall not hold any o[illegible] r public office or employment, except that of notary public or member of the state militia." The court held that service in the armed forces constituted public employment.

HUDSON PLANES WIN REPUTATION FOR DURABILITY

New P-38's, Coming Off Nearby Assembly Line, Hope To Win Laurels, Too.

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Military Editor

BURBANK, Calif.—There is little room for sentiment in the business of turning out combat planes. Yet there is more than a touch of romance to the parallel assembly lines that feed planes out the open hangar door at the Lockheed plant.

Down one line flashy P-38's, the twin-bombed, kite-like fighter plane with twin engines, a lot of firepower, a world of speed—and a reputation still to win.

Down the other come stolid Hudsons, bombing version of the airlines' Lodestar, a plane with a personality and a reputation long established.

The P-38 should be one of our best fighters. It is a high-altitude job, and ranks with the fastest planes in the world. Yet except for a few operations against the Japanese in the Aleutians, and good work as a camera-carrying reconnaissance plane in the southwest Pacific, it has not had a major test, and its scrapbook still is slim.

The Hudson's scrapbook bulges with reports from many fronts, mostly from Britain. These planes have so established themselves in British favor by many incredible returns from hazardous flights, that they have won the nickname of "Old Boomerang."

The reports on Old Boomerang hit their first peak at Dunkerque. While that famous small-boat fleet was taking the British army off the beaches, more than 100 Hudsons were in almost constant action—so constant that many of the bombers returned to their bases with the upper skin of their wings wrinkled from repeated dives and pullouts.

Only seven of the entire force was lost—and one flight of three, attacked by 40 Nazi planes, was credited with downing or disabling seven without loss to themselves.

First to drop bombs and set afire the oil tanks at Bremen and Hamburg, the Hudsons also located and attacked the German battleship Bismarck as she put out from Norway and, together with Consolidated's Catalina flying boats, helped track her down for her eventful destruction by the British navy.

But these are not the feats by which the Hudson won its nickname, rather, they were such accomplishments as these:

Flying low on patrol in a Norwegian fjord, a Hudson hit a projecting rock on a small island. A hole was ripped in the cabin floor, the roof was knocked off the pilot's cabin, the props were bent, the radio was damaged, and one engine was knocked out briefly. Home was 300 miles away across the North sea. The Hudson made it, on navigation "by common sense and guesswork," and crash-landed in Scotland without injury to anyone on board—and the landing was made with loaded bomb racks . . .

Back from a raid on Holland, a Hudson landed with a cannon shellhole in the wing so large a man could crawl through it . . .

The peacetime prototype of the Hudson carried Howard Hughes to his round-the-world record. The records she's setting now are of a different type—but "Old Boomerang" still comes home.

NEW APPEAL

U. S. Says Mechanics, Laborers Needed at Pearl Harbor.

Urgent need for skilled mechanics, helpers and laborers to speed vital war work underway at Pearl Harbor has prompted another call for help by the United States Civil Service Commission.

Free transportation on the railroad from the applicant's home to the point of embarkation will be provided by the government, George H. Hoover, secretary of the local Civil Service Commission office located in the Mansfield Postoffice building, said today.

Numerous positions are open and time and a-half is paid for overtime. The minimum age for journeymen is 20 years and for helpers and laborers, 18 years. Men in 1-A selective service classification should not apply for helper and laborer positions, Hoover said.

Full particulars may be obtained at the Civil Service Commission office.

Ohioan Raises Own Coffee To Beat Shortage

URBANA—INS—John Guy has a solution to the problem of no coffee for breakfast, simply raise your own.

Already this fall, Guy has harvested a heap of healthy filled coffee pods from two 185-foot rows. He tried a few plants last summer and results were so satisfactory he planted nearly all the beans he raised in 1941.

Each plant, most of which yield nearly 50 pods containing from six to eight beans apiece, bore well this summer, Guy reported. The beans are tasteless until roasted but this is a simple matter, according to Guy.

Next year, Guy says he is going to double his planting.

West First Paving Contemplated But 'Ifs' Are Involved

With a flock of "ifs" involved, city officials are contemplating the repaving of West First street, from South Mulberry to South Main streets, either this fall or as soon as weather permits in the spring.

Council will be asked, City Engineer W. C. Statler indicated today, to approve a cost-sharing project with the WPA, under which the works administration labor force would perform the task. George C. Kyle, council member at-large, said today the estimated cost is around $7,500, the city assuming $3,500 of the total.

Plans call for taking up of brick pavement and construction of a seven-inch base on which the brick will be replaced. Carrying out of the program, Statler says, is conditioned on "if the WPA workers will be available;" "if weather permits," "if material can be obtained," "if the project will be approved by the government," "if council approves" and "if" whatever else might enter into the decisions.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Splendid Cough Syrup Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your own kitchen. Once tried you'll never be without it, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, known for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—This is Hollywood again . . . Go away for a while and then come back, and you find it the same but always different.

Diferent? Here are a few of the changes in the little while I was gone:

Coons

There doesn't seem to be much more doubt about what's going to happen to the double feature. The industry's big headache (at least according to it opponents) is yielding to the curative influence of those bitter war pills—film curtailment and, secondarily, star shortage.

SERVICE flags displayed at the various lots, incompletely star-studded a few weeks ago, now are blue milky ways—with tragic spots of gold telling their close-to-home tales. Among the new actors represented in the array of blue stars are (or will be soon) Cesar Romero, Ray MacDonald, Richard Ney, Robert Preston, George Montgomery, John Payne.

In the world of rations, gasoline had replaced tires as the consuming topic. There was a general feeling that "they can't do that to us"—that some recognition would be taken of the town's appalling distances. Sugar? It was just a pet name for a chorine.

There had been the usual title changes—a movie you left as "The Man on America's Conscience" was now "Tennessee Johnson" (a switch all for the good) and "Sweet or Hot" was "Seven Days' Leave," and so on. It takes a while to track down these things, but it's advisable—for all fans—if you want to know what epics to avoid.

THE Hollywood Canteen, after a gala-gala opening, was still flourishing, drawing the names and the uniforms, but the usual movie town night life was struggling through precarious times. Tax anticipations continued to keep the champagne corks from popping with the old easy frequency.

They were still announcing new productions, new castings, new finds—Van Johnson was being touted at Metro, Marcy McGuire at RKO, and so on . . . They were still "previewing" films that played on Broadway and way points weeks ago—a quaint Hollywood custom springing from the consent decree and Hollywood's old desire to have its bad pictures spared advance panning.

They were rushing work on "This Is the Army," and the long-projected "Mission to Moscow" was under way. So was "Lady in the Dark"—but not in the dark. In technicolor.

This is Hollywood again, all right, all right.

Conciliator Mum on Cincinnati Strike

ORDERED SENT BACK TO O. S. R. AFTER SHOOTING

Parolee Four Months To Be Returned to Resume Term on Robbery Charge.

Henry Litteral, 26, roomer at 669 Springmill street, is on his way back to the Ohio State Reformatory after less than four months of freedom under a parole.

Yesterday afternoon Litteral was turned over to the custody of Reformatory authorities and transferred from city prison to county jail to await recommitment to the state institution, police deciding against pressing a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Litteral allegedly fired at Mrs. Helen Mosher Erhardt when she pursued him after he had knocked her down in a North Main street cafe during a quarrel with his girl companion. Litteral compelled the latter girl to accompany him in his attempted flight, under threat of death, she said in a statement to police.

Capt. Jesse Schwab was in command of a squad of patrolmen who surrounded Litteral's rooming house shortly after the shooting affray. When his car approached Patrolman John Gilbert halted it, ordering Litteral and his two men and the woman companion to hold up their hands.

Litteral is reported to have hurled a revolver into nearby weeds and grabbed a beer bottle as Gilbert approached. He was manacled immediately and his companions taken into custody by the other patrolmen.

At the station Litteral remained surly and silent under questions by Captains Schwab and Paul Whipp. His companions were released after signing statements. According to police, Litteral had been establishing a reputation as a "bad character" in the flats since his parole.

Police are of the belief Litteral now will be required to serve a long part of the 10-to-25-year sentence imposed in Columbus in 1937 on an armed robbery charge.

BOUT PROVIDES REPERCUSSIONS

Husband, Wife Argue Over Louis, Braddock Fight, Get Divorce.

CHICAGO —(INS)— It was away back in 1937 that Joe Louis and Jim Braddock fought for the world's heavyweight boxing title, but the event had a belated repercussion today—a divorce for Mrs. Estelle Zwiner.

She told Judge Joseph Sabath she and her husband, Arthur, debated the then forthcoming bout. She picked Braddock and her husband picked Louis. Their difference of opinion led to a quarrel and the quarrel led to two black eyes for her, she said.

Braddock fared even worse. He got two black eyes and lost the title.

GIVES TIPS ON SAVING COFFEE

OPA Tells How To Make Your Ration Go Further and Taste Better.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — With coffee rationing starting midnight Nov. 28, the OPA today has home helpful hints on how to make coffee go further and still have a cupful of good quality. They are:

1. Use fresh coffee. Buy less each time, and more frequently.
2. Keep your coffee in a tightly covered container.
3. Keep it in the refrigerator or some other cool place. It deteriorates less rapidly when cool.
4. Keep your coffee pot immaculately clean.

5. Have your coffee ground as fine as possible for the pot you intend to use. Finely ground coffee goes further than coarsely ground coffee.

6. Use accurate measurements instead of "heaping tablespoons."
7. Don't boil coffee. It drives off the very elements you want.
8. Serve the coffee as soon as it's made.
9. Make only the exact amount you want to use. "Left-over coffee is wasted coffee, though it can be stored in the refrigerator for use as flavoring—or for a cup of warmed-over coffee, if you like it that way."

RULES AGAINST BOND ORDINANCE

Court Says Legislation Must Be Repealed or Put To Vote.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Middletown city commission, according to a state supreme court ruling yesterday, must either repeal an ordinance authorizing a $1,800,000 bond issue to finance construction of a municipal electric light and power plant, or submit the ordinance to a public referendum.

The commission passed the ordinance authorizing issuance of mortgage revenue bonds in that amount Nov. 18, 1938. A referendum petition signed by more than 10 per cent of the voters was filed with the clerk of the commission, but the commission ignored the petition on the grounds it had not been filed with a proper executive officer.

The court held that filing of the petition with the commission clerk was proper under the city charter.

PENITENTIARY INMATES WANT OUT TO TAKE CRACK AT AXIS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio penitentiary military training battalion, an organization of some 460 inmate-volunteers, wants out — to have a go at the Axis.

To a man, battalion members petitioned Gov. John W. Bricker for clemency so that, if qualified under army regulations, they might enter military service.

The plea, said Warden Frank D. Henderson today, was for individual consideration based on the record of each prisoner and not designed to obtain release for service as a "black legion." He expressed the opinion a majority of the men could meet army eligibility standards.

"I feel there are many men in this battalion," Henderson said, "who should be given an opportunity to serve in the armed forces of the United States, where I feel they would serve with credit to themselves and to their country. By so doing they would demonstrate their rehabilitation and their value to the country, not only as soldiers but as useful citizens after the emergency has passed."

C. Emory Glander, the governor's clemency secretary, forwarded the petition to the Ohio Pardon and Parole commission, whose chairman, H. W. Jewell, recalled that already about 700 former Ohio prisoners are in army service.

"I believe that a man in service actually is under better supervision that the state is able to exercise," said Jewell. "However, every army regulation pertaining to former prisoners must be complied with."

The army stipulates that only first-termers are eligible for service and even these are barred if they were convicted of such crimes as treason, murder, kidnaping, rape, arson, sex offenses or narcotic law violations.

CAR HIT BRIDGE

Mystery Surrounding Man's Injuries Cleared.

Mystery surrounding the serious injury of Joe Papy, 81 East Second street, who is in General hospital with crushed ribs, a punctured lung and other cuts and bruises was solved late yesterday by Motorcycle Patrolman Rocliff B. Hout.

Papy was crushed about 9:30 p. m. Sunday when his auto struck an abutment of the Newman street bridge, according to Sam Hall, 295 Bemiller street. Hall found Papy walking around in a daze shortly after that hour, in the vicinity of the bridge.

First reports that Hall was a taxi driver baffled early efforts to determine causes of Papy's injuries. The auto, with the entire front end smashed in, was found near the bridge, Tuesday.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Ohio had 22,463,000 bushels of wheat stored on farms, in interior mills and elevators on Oct. 1, the federal-state crop reporting service announced today.

This was 18 per cent less than the 27,520,000 bushels stored a year ago, because of Ohio's short crop this year.

Laff-a-Day

"They decided to practice drilling, instead of pacing aimlessly!"

H. M. Ballard, guest at an East Third street hotel, knows today what one well-dressed thief is wearing. Ballard told police that when he attempted to enter his room late yesterday the door was barricaded by a table and chair. It was discovered that a ransacker who escaped through a window transom and a fire escape took with him a new suit of clothes, oxfords, a radio and an expensive hat. A topcoat had been abandoned in a bathroom through which the fugitive passed.

What started out to be a calm week-end for Ruth Dunham and Edythe Klerk, teacher in a Kalamazoo, Mich., school, who was visiting in Mansfield, took an exciting change when the teachers reached Cleveland to see Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green." After the play they went backstage to see the leading man Tom Williams, a friend of Miss Dunham's. Two Welshmen also came to see Williams and one proved to be the doctor who had taken care of Mrs. Lionel Barrymore when she had been ill in London years ago. But even more of a coincidence was the fact that the other man had been a next door neighbor of Williams when he lived in Clyda-chewm-Tawe, South Wales. To top it all off, Miss Klerk and some friends will have dinner with Williams when the show goes to Kalamazoo, Friday.

CITY WORKERS BEGIN SECOND DAY OF TIE-UP

Water Supply Temporarily Curtailed Halting Some Surgical Operations.

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI—S. W. Duncan, United States conciliation commissioner, today refused to comment after he spent two hours in closed session with city officials during which time the strike of hundreds of municipal service employes was discussed.

Duncan, who rushed to Cincinnati yesterday by plane from Washington indicated he "might have a statement after I confer with officials of City Employes Local 211, United Construction Workers," (UMW) who called the strike.

Meanwhile the employes began the second day of their strike in protests of City Manager C. O. Sherrill's "starvation wages."

The walkout caused complete stoppage of street cleaning, waste collection, and highway repair work, and temporarily curtailed the city's water supply system. However, Waterworks Supt. Carl Eberling asserted that "everything was normal again today."

Surgical operations were canceled for the day at Deaconess hospital, one of the city's larger institutions of the kind; Deer Park, a northern suburb, was without water "and the town would have gone had we had a fire," Chief Richard Sellers reported.

Even Hamilton county's tin collections ceased because it was not "deemed advisable under the circumstances" to continue use of the city trucks for this purpose.

Some 400 strikers, many carrying banners, jammed city council chambers to attend that body's regular weekly meeting, but solons failed to utter even one word of discussion on the wage controversy.

President John J. Hurst of the central labor council urged all AFL-affiliated employes to stay on the job in face of what City Manager Sherrill termed a "threatened catastrophe." They did, although no number was indicated.

George E. Rice, president of the City Employes' union, a United Construction Workers' affiliate, said his union sought a 25 per cent increase over current wages which range from 60 cents an hour for 40-hour-week laborers in street sweeping and maintenance departments to a 40-to-58-cent scale on a 54-hour week in the waterworks. Certain deductions are made in both instances. A street laborer averaging $21.60 a week.

Union leaders said the number of strikers reached 1,500 while Manager Sherill estimated the group at 500.

Pilot Held, Admits 'Greeting' Caused Mid-Air Collision

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Mystery surrounding the cause of the mid-air collision between an army bomber and an American airliner in which 12 persons were killed in Palm Springs, Cal., Friday was dispelled today by the revelation that the bomber pilot had a rendezvous to greet the airliner co-pilot over San Francisco pass.

The bomber pilot, 2nd Lt. William N. Wilson, 25, of West Los Angeles, told an army board of inquiry he met the co-pilot, L. F. Repport, at a party the night before the crash and arranged to fly by the airliner in the pass while the passenger plane was making a regularly scheduled flight east.

After hearing the testimony, the board of inquiry ordered Lt. Wilson held for court martial on manslaughter charges.

PLANE PLANTS POOL RESOURCES

Aircraft Council Keeps Big California Factories Producing Smoothly.

(By Wide World)

LOS ANGELES — Bob Lawson, works manager of the Vultee Aircraft plant was stumped for the moment A stabilized hoist and bridge had broken down examination showed it would have to be dismantled completely to repair the damage

A job like that would take four weeks Meanwhile Vultee's production — including dive-bombers for the U S army air forces and for the British—would be hung up

Suddenly Lawson grabbed the telephone called Stanley Spencer of the manufacturing firm of Spencer and Morris He explained the predicament, asked, "Can you help us?'

"Maybe we can, Bob," said Spencer "We've just finished a couple of those units for Douglas Long Beach plant. Perhaps they can spare one for a while"

The next day the unit was installed and Vultee was back in high-speed production

In this way, and in many others like it the aircraft war production council is maintaining the smooth flow of production among Southern California's eight major aircraft manufacturers — Consolidated, Douglas, Lockheed, North American, Northrop Ryan Vega and Vultee — while Boeing, the other important west coast producer, keeps in close touch with the council.

In the slightly more than six months of their cooperation, the council members have come to work as departments of one giant firm rather than as eight individual concerns. They pool men, materials and information, and engineering developments and production shortcuts which in peacetime would be jealously-guarded secrets are made common property for the greater common good

WAR CUTS OFF DOPE SUPPLIES

Drug Addicts Now Taking an Involuntary Cure, Bureau Chief Reports.

ST. LOUIS —(U P)— Inability to obtain new supplies of drugs because of the war virtually has smashed rings of dope peddlers operating throughout the United States, according to Jack Tully, head of the St Louis narcotic bureau

"All the addicts are taking involuntary cures," he said "simply because they can't get their 'junk'."

Once in a great while a stray grain of morphine will turn up, Tully said, but its price is far from the 50 to 75 cent fee asked by the peddlers in pre-war days. Now they get $3 per grain when they can furnish it, or $1,300 an ounce.

Tully said about the only way addicts can get drugs now is from physicians on prescription and he declared most of the physicians who wrote prescriptions for addicts have been caught

Addicts unable to obtain morphine have turned to paregoric which contains a little opium, Tully said, but even this is becoming scarce now and agents are keeping a sharp watch on sales of this commodity.

Marijuana is still for sale, Tully said, but violators of the anti-marijuana ordinance are decreasing because agents have more time to trace them.

CONTROL UNIT WILL BE PHASE OF WAR SCHOOL

Demonstration Will Be Top Number on Saturday Night Program at Senior High.

Clarence Lisle, chairman of Mansfield's civilian defense control center committee, will be the busiest man in 15 counties Saturday night.

Featuring Saturday night's program of the two-day war protection school to be presented by Purdue university faculty members and officers of the Chemical Warfare Service, will be control center exercises which are expected to attract hundreds to Mansfield Senior high school auditorium.

Declaring the school sessions open to every adult interested in civilian defense, and especially urging attendance by all enrolled defense workers, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, expects the signal alarm-control center program to be one of the highlights of the course.

Under the Purdue-War department set-up a personnel of 38 is required for the demonstration including one commanding officer, one executive officer, one controller, one military liaison officer six chiefs of service, one map plotter, one telephonist, one radio aid, four incident officers, three messengers, one guard and 15 air wardens

This group is being chosen from enrolled civilian defense registrants and may probably receive preliminary schooling before Saturday night's demonstration

Clarence Silcott of the city engineer's office has prepared a huge panel map for use in this demonstration and for future use by Lisle's control center group.

WAIT NEW JAP DRIVE AGAINST SOLOMON AREA

American Forces Outnumbered on Guadalcanal Despite Foe's Losses.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and the early part of Friday (Island time) remain to be reported.

That is not unusual, inasmuch as reports of action in the Solomons have been issued here two and three days after occurrence.

The navy's statement of "no report of any other action" being received does not necessarily mean a lull in the fighting, although the intensity of the battle may have decreased somewhat since the week-end when it raged furiously on land, sea and air.

If there is a lull, it will be the first in weeks. It has been more than a month since a day has passed in which no action of any sort—land, naval or aerial—has taken place.

Office of War Information Director Elmer Davis, in an address last night, said that up to noon yesterday, 'when I last talked to navy representatives, all sinkings of major United States naval vessels have been reported."

While the navy's report that enemy losses in men and equipment in troop actions on Guadalcanal since last Friday "have been very heavy as compared to our own," naval officials here continued to look upon the overall picture of the battle of the Solomons as a grim one.

Meanwhile, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen continued support of their comrades on Guadalcanal with heavy raids on Japan's feeder base at Rabaul and by setting fires visible for 80 miles on enemy airdromes at Buka, most northern of the Solomon islands.

Here officials awaited further reports on the recent developments in the Solomons:

1. The result of a naval air battle fought 400 miles northeast of Guadalcanal on Monday.

2. Disposition of an enemy cruiser and destroyer force immediately north of Florida island which was attacked four times by army and navy bombers.

3. The land battle on Guadalcanal which started last Friday night with four enemy tank and heavy artillery attacks and presumably has been continuing ever since.

The outcome of the naval air battle northeast of Guadalcanal which opened with an exchange of air attacks between an American carrier task force and "strong enemy forces" may have an important bearing on the task of reinforcing and supplying the American garrison on Guadalcanal. The battle was in an area close to Guadalcanal's supply line from advance bases in the New Hebrides. All that is known about it to date is that an American destroyer was sunk, a U. S. aircraft carrier "severely damaged" and other American vessels also damaged. Enemy casualties reported were: one carrier badly damaged, a second carrier damaged, one cruiser badly damaged and a battleship hit.

Navy patrol planes also attacked that enemy force Monday night and hit a carrier with a torpedo and a cruiser with two bombs. It has not been made clear whether those ships were among those damaged by the carrier planes earlier in the day.

The four attacks on the enemy force north of Florida island came Sunday afternoon and Monday morning. American aircraft inflicted this damage during those raids: Damaged and stopped one heavy cruiser, one bomb hit on another heavy cruiser, two bomb hits on a light cruiser which was left burning and dead in the water, and one direct hit on another heavy cruiser.

Drive To Smash All Southern Jap Bases

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — (By Courier) — (U.P.)— The biggest Allied air striking force ever assembled in New Guinea is concentrated in a drive to smash every Japanese air base from the Admiralty islands southward, it was revealed today.

The growing Allied bomber force, it was said, will be expanded to an even greater extent shortly.

Objective of the air offensive —now in almost continuous operation—is to smash the Japanese air bases used for attacking the southern Solomons and force the Japanese to rely entirely on carrier-based craft to support their attack on the Americans on Guadalcanal.

Rabaul is the main target of the Allied attack, it was said, but other major objectives are Lae, Salamaua, Gasmata and Buin.

The newest Rabaul smash was carried out by a light force of Flying Fortresses.

At least two Japanese ships were damaged, one of them possibly a light cruiser or destroyer. The planes encountered strong anti-aircraft fire any many searchlights but all returned.

Navigator Lieut. Jacob H. Franz, Charlestown, W. Va., said "The ships were more spread out than usual and didn't present such an easy target but we got pretty close."

Reports Army, Navy Accord On Battle

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that the raging battle of the Solomon islands, once described as a "navy show" by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, was the result of plans agreed to by the joint army and navy chiefs of staff.

Asked at a press conference whether the undertaking was purely a navy venture, Stimson said it was not in his province to comment on developments in the Solomon islands except that he would say:

"Decision to launch the Solomon islands operation was made by the joint chiefs of staff in accordance with an agreed upon plan and was not purely a naval decision."

Rep. John M. Costello, (D., Calif.) in the first congressional criticism of the Solomons campaign two weeks ago, said he feared that the navy had tried to make a "grandstand play" and had not called upon the army for help early enough in the battle.

U. S. Bombers Attack Jap Lashio Base

CHUNGKING—(INS)—American B-25 bomber planes with a fighter escort carried out a heavy attack on the Japanese base at Lashio at the terminus of the Burma road, it was announced today.

A communique disclosed that bombers, in attacking the enemy airdrome, scored a direct hit on an anti-aircraft battery as well as hits on a small hangar and the dispersal area. One runway was damaged.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered but all the planes returned safely to their bases.

'ONE COMMAND' DEMAND GROWS

MacArthur Statement Seen as Call For Unity; Washington Protests Mount.

There was no explanation for the change but it was recalled that United States naval operations in that area had cost three cruisers, the aircraft carrier Wasp, five destroyers and four other ships.

The newspaper comment that drew MacArthur's statement was written by the Christian Science Monitor's Washington correspondent, Joseph C. Harsch, who remarked that "so great has been the dissatisfaction with progress in the Solomons that Washington opinion has veered somewhat away from its strong anti-MacArthur bias."

"Political Washington," he wrote, "was largely responsible for setting up two separate commands in the far Pacific, and it did this partly because of jealousy of MacArthur's great public popularity and partly because the conservative opposition press launched a 'MacArthur for president' campaign without any encouragement from the general himself."

in girth. Most of the packages are almost uniform in size since senders make the most of the maximum space afforded.

Saturday is the last day for mailing overseas in order to assure delivery by Christmas. Postal bulletins for the past two months have urged early mailing this year not only for overseas cards and packages but those addressed within the states as well.

Packages sent to one particular point of debarkation this year require a customs declaration, a card on which the sender lists every item in the package and the cost down to the last 10-cent tube of toothpaste.

Christmas mailing within the states should begin right after Dec. 1, the last postal bulletin on holiday mailing indicated. The bulletin urged mailing at least 20 to 25 days before Christmas depending on the distance to the destination. Crowded transportation facilities and a shortage of postal workers made early mailing necessary the postmaster pointed out.

NEED RELEASES

War Workers Banned From Navy Unless Employers Say O. K.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Workers in vital industries will be rejected henceforth for enlistment in the navy unless they present a release from their local draft board.

The navy's announcement said it already has taken steps to carry into effect the manpower policy outlined by the war manpower commission. Men in selective service classifications 2A, 2B and 3B must obtain their release from the selective service system before applying for enlistment.

SOYBEANS BURN

Loss In Ohio Elevator Fire Set At $50,000.

WAPAKONETA — (INS) — Fire which destroyed hundreds of tons of soybeans and grain at the Boogher grain elevator at nearby Sante Fe, caused damage totaling $50,000, it was estimated today.

Firemen from Lakeview, Jackson Center and Wapakoneta succeeded in saving the elevator's office, and other small adjoining building. It was believed the blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion.

PROTESTS SENTENCE

CINCINNATI — (INS) — Steven Hamel of Detroit, asked the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals to set aside a six-year sentence imposed in Detroit Oct. 23 on a charge of importing an alien woman from Canada for immoral purposes.

Mailing Yule Gifts for Men In Service

Here's a typical scene at the Mansfield Postoffice this week as senders of Christmas packages to soldiers overseas hasten to beat the Nov. 1 deadline. A continuous line-up before the parcel post window has kept postal clerks on the go since mailing was stepped up the first of the week. Packages must be mailed by Nov. 1, the postmaster general warns, in order for delivery to be assured by Christmas.

KEROSENE, FUEL OIL CONSUMERS REGISTER IN COUNTY NEXT WEEK

Richland county registration for fuel oil and kerosene for agricultural and domestic uses such as cooking and lighting will begin in the county school districts Monday, Nov. 2, and continue for a three-day period.

Registration will be conducted daily from Monday through Wednesday in the various school buildings in the county exclusive of Mansfield, Shelby and the four townships of Jackson, Cass, Sharon and Plymouth.

Applicants will register between 4 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. with the exception of those living in the Woodville, East Mansfield and Lincoln Heights school districts, where registration begins at 4:30 p. m. and continues to 8:30 p. m. A corps of 55 volunteer workers, most of them teachers, will handle registration.

Hours for the county registration were fixed at a joint meeting of school and rationing board officials yesterday afternoon at the courthouse.

Consumer registration began in both Mansfield and Shelby today and all registration centers were kept busy by a steady stream of applicants. Ten volunteer workers were stationed at the courthouse and five workers handled the registration at the rationing board office, 43 North Mulberry street.

Mansfield persons making application for heat, hot water, industrial and commercial purposes are registering at 43 North Mulberry street while registration for other purposes such as cooking, lighting and miscellaneous domestic use is made at the courthouse. Applicants with names beginning with the letters H-T will register Friday and those from S-Z Saturday from 8:45 a. m. to 5:15 p. m.

Shelby kerosene users as well as kerosene consumers in the aforementioned townships will register at Shelby high school while fuel users will register at the war price board office in the city hall. Registration will be conducted Friday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. and Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

Clos had stopped the bus at the railroad crossing in suburban Hamtramck to allow a freight car to pass. As he started across the tracks, the passenger train bore down from the opposite direction. Clos told officials that he did not see the oncoming passenger train because the passengers obscured his vision.

The watchman at the crossing asserted that the blinker warning lights were still flashing when the bus started to cross the tracks. There is no protective gate at the crossing.

Witches, Hobgoblins Parade Down Town Tomorrow Night

Financed by Mrs. Hunt the celebration this year will be without a band for the first time since the sponsor said today that she had "not been able to hire, beg or borrow" a band for the occasion. She added that if "any band still wishes to participate" she will be glad to know about it.

The downtown celebration is expected by Police Chief Thomas J. Bell to keep Halloween in Mansfield a "safe and sane" affair although he has issued warning that destruction of any kind will not be tolerated.

City police will be out in full force Friday night, the chief said, and juvenile offenders like all other violators will be taken into custody. The youthful element will be held at the jail until such time as their parents can appear with them in the juvenile division of probate court, Bell said.

GOES OVERSEAS

Mail Includes More Than Million Christmas Parcels for Soldiers.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — More than 1,000,000 Christmas parcels were included in a record total of 3,396 tons of mail sent to American armed forces overseas during the first 25 days of October.

This volume far exceeds the amount sent to the AEF in the same period of the World war, Secretary of War Stimson said today.

ACTRESS DIES

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Mrs John W. Sherman, known for nearly 49 years on stage and screen as Brenda Fowler, is dead. The actress' last outstanding movie appearance was opposite the late Will Rogers in "Judge Priest" in 1934.

fensive while subjecting Rommel's forces to a ceaseless aerial and artillery bombardment.

Latest advices from the front indicated that Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's desert-wise troops were going methodically about the task of widening gaps in the Axis defenses and whittling down the enemy's strength in preparation for the main test to come.

While no spectacular advances were reported there were indications that Montgomery's systematic tactics were achieving results.

These tactics obviously were an exemplification of the thesis which the British have set forth repeatedly in the past—that the conquest of territory means little in the desert and that the prime objective is not to push the enemy back but to destroy him.

It appeared, too, that Montgomery was determined not to repeat the mistake which the British made last June when they forged ahead too rapidly and ran into a trap.

Thus far both Montgomery and Rommel apparently have been using their tank strength sparingly.

CALL MEN WED BEFORE DEC. 8 TO ARMY DUTY

State Gives 'Go' Orders on Husbands For December Draft Call.

ly small quota for the month is the main reason why it will have almost enough men in other classifications to fill the call.

In his instructions to local boards for meeting their December quotas, Lieut. Col Wahl requested them to induct men from four groups. The order in which he set them up is:

1. Single men, including 20-year-olds.

2. Single men with collateral dependents, such as parents and brothers and sisters.

3. Men married after Dec. 8, 1941; men married when induction was imminent, and married men not maintaining bona fide family relationship with their families.

4. Married men with wife only, regardless of when they were married.

The Richland boards will have virtually depleted their reservoir of registrants in the first three groups by the end of November since the October and November calls are big ones, clerks said.

Clerks pointed out, however, that they probably will receive complaints that all single men have not been called. A number of unmarried men have been unable to meet army physical requirements while others have been deferred temporarily for occupational reasons, they explained. In the case of Board 3, particularly, it has been necessary to defer a few single men to help with harvest and farm work.

Although Lieut. Col. Wahl said the induction of married men may be delayed if legislation authorizing boards to induct 18 and 19-year-olds is passed soon, the Richland county boards held little hope of getting the younger men classified in time for induction by December.

If the 18 and 19-year-old draft legislation is enacted by Nov. 15, youths probably could be classified in time for the January call, state draft officials said. How long they would delay the induction of married men would depend upon the size of the calls early next year and the number of youths who have enlisted for service, officials explained.

PAPER'S NEXT

WPB Expected to Freeze Output of Newsprint, Other Paper.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war production board is expected to freeze the production of newsprint and other paper within the next few days at present levels.

A warning by E. W. Palmer, deputy chief of WPB's printing and publishing branch, that the freeze order "would not be the end of curtailment" indicated that a cut in production might be undertaken later.

DOUBTS M'LEISH HAS RESIGNED

Davis Says, 'If He's Out, I Don't Know About It.'

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Commenting on published reports that Archibald MacLeish has resigned from the Office of War Information, OWI Chief Elmer Davis today said that if "MacLeish has resigned I don't know it."

"I know he has been eager to get back to his library, but as far as I know he is going to continue with us," Davis added.

MacLeish left his duties as head of the library of congress to take charge of the office of facts and figures. The office was abolished when the OWI was created but MacLeish continued with the latter office.

CHAPTER II

The sisters were as unlike as strangers. Vera's hair was darkly drab. Her skin was smooth, but sallow. At twenty-one she was too tall, and too thin. Only her eyes resembled Livia's — oval shaped and blue-gray — but they lacked her sparkle of vitality, except when she was angry. And she was angry only when anyone dared to hurt her sister or her mother—particularly Livia. Not that many people wanted to cross swords with Livia. It was easier to give in to her. Vera had a fanatical love for Livia. Even as a child she willingly had given the best of her meager possessions—a ribbon, a doll—to the imperious demands of her sister.

They had lived in a two-story, wooden frame house in downtown Los Angeles since leaving the big house on the hill. At one time the neighborhood was quiet and shady, exuding moderate prosperity. But in the last few years the property value had fallen, the trees were uprooted, landlords were reluctant to repair and paint.

As long as Livia could remember, her mother had taught in the Los Angeles public schools. Her sister was planning the same career. And on Livia's seventeenth birthday anniversary it was decided that she, too, should become a school teacher. Livia could not accept or believe anything unless it was happening NOW. She did not want to teach in a school, then or ever.

"And I won't," she vowed silently. But it was all so far distant. Why quarrel about it now? So there was only a brief defiance, a non-passionate argument.

"What else is there for you to do?" her mother and sister had insisted.

"Well," Livia had said, a vein of seriousness running through the jest. "There's always the movies." She was unprepared for her mother's anger. It was the first time she had even considered the possibility that in the movie profession there was an escape from drab reality.

"What's wrong with the movies?" Livia had asked Vera later when they were alone, and after she had soothed her mother with the promise to abandon completely all thoughts on the subject. "They're looking for talent, and who are we to look down on movies? Boy, wouldn't I like to have some of that money?" Livia went on. "Imagine! Some stars get a small fortune for each picture. Baby, baby, if I ever had half of that, oh, what wouldn't I do with it!"

"Well, what would you do?" Vera asked indulgently.

"First thing, we'd leave this dump. Next—oh, next, we could travel. I'd like to go to China, or even to New York, wouldn't you, Vera?"

Vera said, "Yes. But if their mother felt that way about the movies, perhaps Livia had better stop talking about it. Besides," said Vera, "how d'ye know you could break in? There are thousands of girls trying every day—and failing."

This was too true for argument. But Livia hated to be bested by facts. "Why on earth is mother acting up this way? You'd think I'd suggested something criminal."

Vera didn't know, but it was her habit to yield. She had always yielded to her mother and Livia. She enjoyed yielding.

The next day, Mrs. Clarkson told them the plan that had been born when Vera started her studies for the teaching profession.

"I have a little money put away. Why shouldn't we one day all three of us have our own school?" Perhaps they could rent back the old home on the hill? "It would make a wonderful girl's school," she glowed. "Not many, about twenty-four, and—"

Livia interrupted her mother and kissed her.

"Of course," she said, "I was only joking about the movies." She bent her back swiftly and scowled with pretended severity. "Meet the three school marms," she said.

That was a year ago. And it was time to begin her studies. An unexpected reluctance possessed her. What was the use of being attractive, of a strange exhilaration that beckoned her—where, she knew not—of youth and exuberance, and all to be chained in the narrow space of a classroom? But as they had so unerringly stated, what else could she do?

Then the Los Angeles Gazette decided to rebuild falling circulation with a competition for "The Charm Girl." The prize was a screen test at one of the studios.

Livia sent a snapshot of herself, smiling, to the newspaper, but without any confidence of success. This morning the miracle had happened. She had received a letter from the Gazette, informing her that she was among the twelve picked for the final judging and would she attend the lunch at the Sunshine hotel for the choosing of the winner?

All day long Livia had wrestled with the problem. All day long the opportunity for freedom had burned in her soul. Surely this was fate saying, "Here is life! Go out and grasp it." If she won—the magic door was open for all the treasures of the world. Fame, money, adulation. But she had promised her mother to join her in the school.

To destroy time and help her decision, she went to the Premiere. It was the first one she had seen. The furs, dazzling jewels, the sleek, happy expressions, convinced her she, too, would one day walk down that wide, red carpet. They would shriek her name, and she would wave languidly to the crowd in the bleachers, and smile graciously for the photographers. Drabness had surrounded her, but now had come this miraculous opportunity.

"I won't give it up," she repeated as the trolley car clanged on its homeward journey. But her secret weighed heavily on her heart, and she paused uneasily by the door of her home. Vera was playing softly a Chopin nocturne. Livia hoped her mother was out. It would be easier to break the news to Vera first, and then perhaps together they could pursuade her mother to forget her unreasonable attitude against the movies.

But her mother was home. She was leaning forward in a chair, her face cupped in her hands. Traces of tears gleamed on her cheeks, but she smiled happily when she saw Livia. Vera stopped playing. They had radiant news.

"The school—" Vera said. For a second Livia did not hear. She was choosing the words to tell them of the competition. Why should her mother hate the movies? It was unlike her mother to be so prejudiced, her mother was usually so understanding and intelligent.

"We can get the school," Vera said again.

"School?" repeated Livia, "Oh, yes, the school." Her mother and Vera were talking together.

"Hey, wait a minute," Livia stopped them. She tried to make her voice calm, but gloom settled on her heart, "Where's the money to come from?" she asked casually. But the money was there. Only a comparatively small downpayment was to be made. The rest to go over a five-year period. They were to take possession in six months.

"By that time I'll have my degree," Vera said happily.

Livia listened calmly. Should she destroy their content by telling them about the competition? What was the use? She probably wouldn't win it anyway.

The dream had been nice while it lasted. But now it was over. For one day she had escaped from drear reality into a sweet land of make-believe. For one day an image of freedom had carried her beyond the narrow horizon of the schoolroom. But life had caught her again. She knew her place. It was with her mother and sister. And she really meant it when she told them:

"That's fine; count me in."

Yes, she meant it all that evening, and far into the sleepless night. She meant it up to twelve o'clock the next day. But somehow she was putting on the green dress that emphasized the round lines of her young figure. And the green straw hat that framed the hair that was like a glowing sun. And she went to the Sunshine, and smiled charmingly at the judges and won the competition.

She had won the competition! Incredibly, she Livia Clarkson, was "The Charm Girl."

"Will my picture be in your paper?" she said to the reporter who was asking her where she was born, where she lived, what she did for a living. He laughed.

"She wants to know if her picture will be in the paper?" he said to a photographer.

"It had better be," said the photographer, "or we're out of a job. Now, look this way, Livia. And give us that big smile again." They treated her with casual familiarity. Livia wasn't sure she liked it, particularly when they made her pose holding her skirt several inches above her knees.

"Do I have to?" she asked the executive in charge of the "Charm Girl" competition.

"Sure, all the movie stars do that—at the beginning."

So she held her skirt gingerly above her knees.

It was three o'clock before they let her go. Her eyes still reflected the white flashlights. She was hungry and suddenly realized she had eaten nothing of the elaborate food set before her at the luncheon in the Sunshine hotel.

"Even 'Charm Girls' have to eat to live," she giggled and went downstairs into the Sunshine coffee shop and ordered a ham sandwich and a glass of milk. Two of the cameramen who had photographed her upstairs saw her and waved. One of them came over.

"Hey, better watch your calories if you're gonna be a movie star," he warned in mock severity. He took another picture of her biting into her sandwich. A freckled boy stampeded over and demanded her autograph.

"I'm not a movie actress," Livia told him. But he was not convinced. They didn't take photographs of you eating a ham sandwich without good reason. Livia signed reluctantly and watched covertly as he studied her name. She expected him to tear out the page from his book. But no, he seemed quite satisfied. Her spirits rose. If they wanted her autograph now, how much more would they want it when they saw her picture in the papers and when she was actually a movie star?

A boy was selling newspapers on the corner. Livia halted suddenly. On the front page in big black headlines she read, "Local Girl Makes Good." So! It had happened already: Her heart raced at full speed, and she almost snatched the paper from the boy. But, the local girl who had made good was from the picture of last night.

Livia laughed and said to herself: "That brings me back to earth with a bang.

Where to go now? Home? No, not yet. She did not feel equal to the quarrel with her mother.

She walked aimlessly to the green oasis in Pershing square and sat on a bench. She read the story of the obscure girl again. Soon they would be printing this sort of thing about her, Livia.

She turned the pages. A small photograph of the man she saw at last night's premiere looked at her from the lower corner of a middle page. He had been injured that morning while stunting for a famous star. His condition was said to be serious. The photograph showed him smiling.

"What a pity," murmured Livia. She was beginning a bright new career, and his was probably over. She shivered in the hot sunlight. Was life like that—someone was born, someone was killed? One succeeded, one failed? She remembered the dry warmth of his hand, and the pleasantness of sitting close to him. She should have waited and said good-bye properly. Was he disappointed when he found her gone?

Perhaps he had no friends. Perhaps he was alone, with nobody caring whether he lived or died.

"I'll visit him—now," she said to herself.

"Are you a relative?" they asked her at the hospital.

"Yes," she lied.

"Your name please."

She told them, and wondered why she was here. Perhaps he was married. Perhaps his wife was with him now. She'd look awfully foolish when the nurse came back and exposed her lie.

"This is where I go," she decided, and was half-way down the long corridor when the nurse called after her:

CHILDREN WILL GIVE UP PRANKS ON HALLOWEEN

Adopt Slogan 'Monkey Business Is Sabotage' in Cities Over Nation.

(By United Press)

A growing army of children with the slogan "monkey business is sabotage" planned a prankless Halloween in cities across the nation today while police warned adults to avoid wearing masks or risk arrest on suspicion of being saboteurs.

Youngsters from Albany, N. Y., to Seattle, Wash., responded to appeals from police to refrain from their usual pranks and in some cities substituted a scrap iron salvage campaign for the usual "tricks or treats."

Police in cities from Chicago to Jacksonville, Fla., and Dallas, Tex., warned adults that any grownup caught in a mask would be arrested on suspicion of sabotage. Civilian defense authorities said saboteurs might easily conceal their identities as Halloween celebrants while they struck at vital war plants.

Cities banning masked adult celebrants included Detroit, Milwaukee, Birmingham, Knoxville and all communities in Illinois, Indiana and Texas.

The children of Glencoe, Ill., decided to ring doorbells and ask for scrap and if the householder has none to ask him to buy a war stamp.

Students of Seattle schools substituted community entertainments and home parties for vandalism. Community leaders of Toledo, O., arranged 3,000 parties as an antidote for Halloween mischief.

At Cleveland children decided to stop soaping windshields and save soap grease for the war effort. They were cautioned to avoid ringing doorbells that might disturb the rest of sleeping war workers.

Police chiefs of Albany, N. Y., Knoxville, Tenn., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Martins Ferry, O., warned that any damage to tires would be considered as an attempt to help the Axis. They coined the slogan: "don't make Hitler and Mussolini smile."

Stern warnings were issued to parents in many cities that they would be held strictly responsible for the conduct of their children and arrests would be made for any acts of vandalism.

The usual downtown Halloween celebrations were cancelled in cities from coast to coast.

Judge Harry S. McDevitt, Philadelphia defense director, warned that persons posing as air raid wardens, auxiliary police or members of other OCD branches would be prosecuted.

Fire Chief J. Fleming of Albany, N. Y., cautioned children against destroying property that is irreplacable because of wartime shortages.

The Cleveland (O.) Press carried an open letter to children asking them to help the war effort by forgetting their usual pranks for the duration.

Detroit authorities said heavy armed guards around war factories and other strategic establishments would take severe measures against anyone in a mask who approaches them.

VIOLATION COSTS $5

ASHLAND—R. F. McMahon of Cleveland Heights posted bond for $5 and costs and waived trial in Ashland police court yesterday on a charge of crossing a yellow line.

Halloween Can Be Spooky, Not Destructive

War or no war, Halloween rolls around this year with its full quota of witches, goblins and black cats, but authorities hope ardently that there will not be the destruction of property that has prevailed in former years. Materials and workers' time can be used to much greater advantage in producing munitions for victory than in repairing havoc wrought by over-enthusiastic hoodlums. So the patriotic emphasis on All Saint's Eve in 1942 will be on the quieter celebrations, such as home parties and non-destructive "spooking."

BLIND WOMAN IN WAR WORK

Becomes Expert Typist, Serves at Brookley Field's Navco Station.

MOBILE, Ala. — A 35-year-old life-long blind Mobile woman, Miss Eileen Sutton, is working as one of the vital cogs of the United States' huge war machine — a typist at Brookley Field's Navco Station Unit.

Taking advantage of an opportunity to attend the Tennessee School for the Blind at Nashville, Miss Sutton, after finishing her studies, took a commercial training course, during which she was taught typing and dictaphone work.

After completing the commercial course, the determined little lady found employment with the Tennessee Valley Authority, doing dictaphone and typing work, building herself an excellent record at this work. She was accompanied to her office by her "seeing-eye dog."

When her day's work was done, she would return to her home, relax, listen to the radio, play the piano or read her favorite magazine—via the braille system.

She worked diligently for the TVA until July, 1941, when she resigned to accept a position in Mobile—having previously passed a Civil Service examination, during which she attained a typing speed of 65 words per minute. Her total score for the examination was 96.4.

FISHING MUST WAIT ON WAR

COLUMBUS —(INS)— George N. Mettle would like to retire and do a little fishing, but the government says it needs men with mechanical training in war industries.

Mettle has that training and he is employed steadily in a Columbus war plant. He expects to keep on working for the duration.

"I guess whipping the Japs is more important than going fishing," the 79-year-old man says.

BAGS PHEASANT WITH CAR DOOR

AKRON —(U.P.)— The hunting season always brings stories, but this one happens to be true.

John Till, who had never been hunting and had never seen a pheasant, bagged one with the door handle on his car.

He didn't know it until he got home, but when he opened the door to get out, there was a ringneck draped around the handle. He remembered hearing a thump against the side of his car but paid little attention to it at the time.

Film Shortage May End 'Photo Finish' In Races

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The familiar "foto finish" phrase may soon be lost to the followers of horse racing unless government restrictions on 35 mm. motion picture film are liberalized.

Jack Thomas, who operates the finish camera at Fairmont Park here and several other tracks, said the lack of 35 mm. film threatened to put the placing judges back on the spot.

Thomas said he has enough film to last through the fall season because he had considerable on hand when the government froze the sale of film. He said he has been unable to buy it for more than a month. Placing judges, Thomas said, will probably be back for the winter season.

SEEK DEVICES TO EASE FARM LABOR CRISIS

Experiments Expected to Help Ohio Farmers Grow More With Fewer Workers.

FREMONT—(AP)—New equipment expected to ease 1943 farm labor troubles was demonstrated recently to northwestern Ohio sugar beet growers on the Ralph Watson farm at nearby Old Fort.

In addition to seeing two new devices in operation, growers were shown results obtained in experimental plots where sugar beets were grown from fragmented, or cracked, seeds. The field in which the new seed was used was not planted until Sept. 15.

Drs. H. C. Young and E. R. Yoder of the Wooster Experimental station watched the equipment in operation and spoke on the new seed usage. They are attempting to perfect a seed which will grow only single plants. A big growth of plants is found on the test plots.

If proved consistently successful, the seed will produce plants requiring virtually no hand labor. Growers using such plants could use a cross-blocker once and be almost through with their post-planting work. Extensive hand labor is needed now to thin beet plants.

Two newly-perfected types of blockers were placed in operation. In another field the Scott "Toy" Harvester was demonstrated as a decisive advance in the war effort. This ingenious device lifts the heavy tubers from the ground, cuts off the tops and loads the beets.

Thomas A. Scott, president of the Scott Binder Co., who has been working on the machine for a decade, witnessed the demonstration. Also present were A. C. Joost, manager of the Fremont, O., and Blissfield, Mich., factory areas of the Great Lakes Sugar Co., and its general manager, W. F. Schmitt, Detroit.

Joost teamed with L. R. Kranz, of Amsden, Seneca county, a field agent of the refinery here, to develop one cross-blocker, latest boon to growers faced with ever-growing labor shortages.

Farm scientists, growers and processors looked upon the demonstration as the most significant agricultural developments seen in Ohio in many years. Their adoption next year may enable sugar beet growers to hike their acreage over the record-breaking planting of 1942.

COOL OFF FIRST

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—A "cooling off" period of several years following the war, during which the furious hatreds of Axis peoples may be allowed to subside, should be observed before drafting terms of the final peace, Dr. Donald A. Piatt, U. C. L. A. philosophy professer, declared recently.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1942.

Cheerful thought: Sellers of war savings bonds sometimes collapse from overwork, but it never happens to buyers.

And just to think, such a little thing as observance of the Golden Rule would have prevented a coffee shortage.

In building up an army of 4½ million it appears that no more than 25,000 "conscientious objectors" have been encountered—which indicates an overwhelming majority unwilling to turn the country over to Hitler.

Disturbing Situation In Far East

JUST HOW the accomplishment can be brought about is not yet clear—but in SOME WAY, possibly the way toward which congress is now groping, United States participation in the war must soon be made more effective than it has thus far been if there is to be any hope of victory within the next year, or two, or three.

Congress, or at least some congressmen, has an idea that a "full scale investigation" into the conduct of the war, "immediately after election," would be beneficial, but that method of procedure is of questionable value and would take too long to help the present situation.

Slowly dawning realization that Japan was in complete readiness for a planned war against the United States while this country was dawdling along with appeasement policies and ignoring all warnings of danger, tends to weaken confidence that official Washington even yet recognizes the danger involved in the Pacific warfare, or the inadequacy of allied forces and military equipment in action in that area.

The Pearl Harbor debacle, loss of the Philippines, the pitiful effort of a small force to hold Bataan and the surrender of Corregidor, were all accepted as unavoidable because of lack of preparation, but present action around the Solomons, following a successful offensive against Guadalcanal, has been fairly assumed to be a part of a fully developed campaign for which sufficient force had been assembled to meet the Japs on terms of military equality.

Whatever may be the necessary toll of lives, ships and planes in battle, there is no disposition on the part of Americans to placidly accept anything other than the very best military leadership that can be chosen and placed in ACTUAL charge. There is a strong suspicion that this has not yet been done.

Taxes Seem High, Until You Think

THE NEW tax law, which received its finishing touches last week, places the greatest financial burden they have ever experienced upon the people of the United States.

It will require grim determination on the part of many people to economize and save to the extent of reserving enough money to pay their income tax next year, in addition to paying other taxes, meeting necessary living costs and contributing a share to the various worthy causes which must be sustained.

Some portions of the new tax law will become effective in November—items in the internal revenue division, and soon the Victory tax, with its 5 per cent payroll deduction, will become operative, but it will not be until next March 15, when income tax returns are to be made, that the full impact of extra taxation will be felt.

But even these high taxes will provide only a small percentage of the money needed to carry on the war, and additional billions of dollars must flow into the federal treasury through steadily maintained sales of war savings bonds.

Considered in itself, present and prospective taxation may appear to impose hardships on many who will be required to pay a large part of their income to "the government" to carry on the war—but it should never be forgotten that "the government" means ALL THE PEOPLE of the United States of America and that many WILL GIVE THEIR LIVES in military service while others will have only the lesser task of providing the money and the supplies which the nation's fighting forces must have.

Taxes may seem high—until thought is given to the greater cost of war that is being paid by those who do the actual fighting and to their loved ones at home.

All that can be asked, and that should be demanded, is that the billions of dollars in taxes flowing into the national treasury be wisely and honestly spent for legitimate war purposes and that none of it be wasted.

Paring Down College Football

FOOTBALL has been abandoned by sixty colleges. And while seven hundred continue the game, some of them, too, are on the verge of dropping it.

The reason is financial, stemming from the transportation problem. It is hard to find a way to carry twenty-five young men and their equipment from one city to another, without their having to undergo the hardships of standing. This, for football players, seems not to be thought of. It is harder, and will get more so, to round up a large crowd, especially in a small town. Some big college games have therefore been transferred to larger cities. Notre Dame, for instance, will play the Navy not at South Bend, but in Cleveland.

This paring down of football may not be altogether bad. Sometimes the football tail has seemed bigger than the college dog. Some colleges maintained bands of athletes who played opponents all the way from New York to California. Studying for them must have been out of the question. Even if such athletes were not hired by the college or by enthusiastic alumni, they seemed no essential part of college life. Such barnstormers may advertise the college, but not very favorably. If the pinch in transportation does away with them, American education may gain.

Nazi Trick Foiled By Russians

MOSCOW reports, which have usually proved trustworthy, tell of a Nazi detachment of troops in Stalingrad which tried to penetrate the Russian lines by driving Russian women and children ahead of them. The Russian troops foiled the trick, however, by dashing around into the next street and wiping out the intruders in a flank attack.

There were similar reports of women and children used as shields by the Germans in the last war, but they seemed to be mostly disproved. There was still some chivalry left in Kaiser Wilhelm's Germany. There seems to be none in Hitler's.

The labor situation was summed up by a restaurant keeper, replying to a customer who had complained of poor service: "Customers like you we can always get, but try and get the waiters."

NOT ALL FARM LABOR IS BEING DRAFTED

AFL-CIO Confuses Foreign Groups

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Britain's and Russia's organized labor groups have, between them, a kind of partnership known as the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union War Council, which would be glad to be joined by American workers also. Its difficulty is that it doesn't exactly know with whom to negotiate—the A. F. of L., or the C. I. O.

The issue was pretty hotly argued at the annual session of England's Trades Union Congress, held recently in Blackpool, one of John Bull's important industrial centers.

The affair wasn't very fully covered by cable at the time, but the London papers, now beginning to arrive by mail, deal with it in detail.

It appears that Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the TUC, as the English refer to their Trades Union Congress, visited the United States several months ago with a view to transforming Anglo-Soviet TUWC into an Anglo-Yankee-Soviet council.

As an old acquaintance of President William Green of the A. F. of L., he took the matter up with the latter, but ignored Phil Murray, the C. I. O.'s comparatively modern creation apparently having escaped his attention.

The C. I. O. wasn't long in reminding him of itself, however. Its News promptly denounced his mission editorally, as "miserable and insulting" for having disregarded the American workers' younger alignment in connection with its calculations.

Critics Shout "Red."

What's more, various American critics seized the occasion to speak of Sir Walter as a "red," who, so they said, was trying to ally Yankee labor with Communism—meaning, of course Soviet unionism.

At this juncture the London Times published an article by Sir Wilmott Lewis, its Washington correspondent, suggesting the desirability of a discontinuance of such activity as Sir Walter's, in this country, the present being an inopportune time for 'em—that is, while the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. controversy's still raging.

Sir Walter defended himself vehemently at Blackpool and some other delegates agreed with him, but not all did. There was a considerable situation for British and Russian unionism to mix into.

It seems that Sir Wilmott Lewis, in his journalistic capacity, wasn't the only adverse commentator upon Sir Walter's policy.

Talk was current at Blackpool that British diplomatic representations were made in the United States, with a view to pooh-poohing Labor Secretary Citrine's visit here.

Just what John Bull's representative said wasn't revealed, but Sir Walter obviously had been told and didn't like it, for his comment at the Blackpool conference was, "I have never proclaimed it publicly before, but I have no confidence in the capacity of the people who are advising the British government from Washington." At least, it's to that effect that the London press quotes him. Stenographers recorded it.

How Soviet trades unionism would amalgamate with our kind is anybody's guess.

The Russian and English workers appear to get on quite well with one another thus far, with the war still progressing. It may be different later.

One thing, though, is obvious. The Blackpool gathering unanimously voted complete divorce from the Nazi brand of it.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Oct. 29, 1922.

Nine-year-old Hoffman Calhoun, Park avenue west, was injured when his bicycle was struck by a motorcycle.

Word was received that Dr. W. A. Schaffter, formerly of Mansfield, died in Elizabeth City, N. C.

Announcement was made of completion of enlargement of Mansfield Vitreous Enamel company's plant.

Wayne B. Wheeler gave prohibition talks in three Mansfield churches.

Simon P. Carl, 70, died at his home, 56 Hammond avenue.

Miss Thelma Reed returned to Tiffin to resume studies at Ursuline academy.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Allen, 254 Park avenue west; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sharp, 65 Superior street.

Rev. O. L. Kiplinger entered eighth year as pastor of First Congregational church.

TODAY IN HISTORY

"Tis a sharp medicine, but a sound cure, for all diseases," were the final words spoken by Sir Walter Raleigh, last of Elizabeth's cavalier-heroes, as he was about to ascend the scaffold on this date in 1618. Knowing his end to be inevitable, Raleigh died with serenity and dignity. His enmity to Spain made Raleigh a popular hero.

Teach Self-Reliance

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Louise Eastwood, Branford, Conn., Columnist for a Day.)

DOES this nation need more Militant Mamas? Should Papa pack a punch when it comes to training Son?

Mother Louise Eastwood, of Branford, Conn., answers both questions with an emphatic Yes. And if I know my fellow citizens, it will be responsible for many a stormy supper table. Says she:

"It's my opinion that far too many American mothers would raise their sons to be wishy-washy sissies unless the fathers interfere—which, unfortunately, they seldom do. Nature has ordained that a man must live tough and dangerously if he is to survive. This does not mean that he should be wantonly vicious. It does mean that he should be able to defend himself and the people and principles he loves. That is as much his duty as singing psalms or praying prayers. And the training for that duty must begin in his own home.

"But how can he possibly receive such training if his mother punishes him if he gets in a scrap . . . if she shudders at the thought of guns or jack knives . . . if she refuses to listen to war news for fear he will be contaminated by brutality.

"As a mother I agree with other mothers who do not want young children to play with dangerous objects. Axes and knives are not toys and should not be used as such. But I do believe that every growing boy should be taught the use of such implements. He should know how to build a crude shelter in the woods. He should fashion a sling-shot or chop wood for the fireplace. For the day may come, and soon, when he may be trapped in a distant jungle with only a knife and his quick wits to defend him.

"Like many another mother I live with the fear that my son may some day carelessly kill a young companion or be killed with the inevitable 'unloaded gun.' But that's where Dad should come in. Every father should train his son to a serious and efficient handling of weapons—and a healthy respect for them. There are recruits in the training camps of this nation who actually do not know which end of a gun to hold to their shoulder. What chance have these against children who have been trained from infancy.

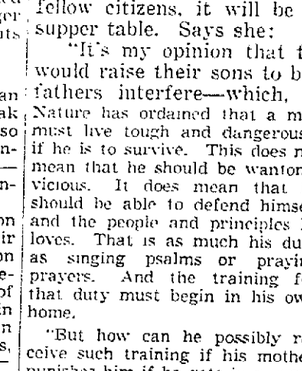
"Every good woman wants to teach her child love and reverence toward God and man. But unless she is a fool or a fanatic, she knows in her heart that this world is not always peaceful and kindly and that WE MUST FIGHT FOR CIVILIZATION AS WELL AS HAVE FAITH IN IT. And if she truly loves her son she will see that he is taught how to fight."

LOUISE EASTWOOD,
Branford, Conn.

There'll be some who will not agree with that letter, but I submit that it is of the stuff that made America. The Pilgrims carried muskets as well as prayer books, and the women who bore their sons knew how to load a gun as well as to build a home. The Crusaders who battled for Christianity knelt before the altar in mail armor before they started on their long trail. IF LIFE IS WORTH LIVING NOBLY AND ABUNDANTLY, IT IS WORTH DEFENDING BY EVERY MEANS WITHIN POWER. NOT A HAPPY THOUGHT, PERHAPS—BUT IT'S THE PRICE WE PAY.

(Copyright, 1942)

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



"Personally, I think she's giving the Red Cross a black eye."

Words of the Wise

There is no worse evil than a bad woman; and nothing has ever been created better than a good one.—Euripides.

If a man really loves a woman, of course, he wouldn't marry her for the world if he were not quite sure that he was the best person she could by any possibility marry.—O. W. Holmes.

Weeding Out Useless Agencies Would Save Billion Each Year

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—If President Roosevelt had a lieutenant, say one he trusted as much as Harry Hopkins, who would be as zealous in trying to save government money on non essential, non military items as Henry Morgenthau is in trying to devise new taxes, you and you and you would have to pay one billion dollars less taxes next year and every year after that.

Different persons might differ as to the total results, naturally, but probably no disinterested investigator would place the amount at less than one billion dollars. And we mean one thousand million dollars. They say one cannot visualize a billion dollars. True. But any grammar school boy or girl can add items to that amount, whether they conprehend the total or not.

ONE of the ablest men in the country recently estimated that efficiency would be increased, and he was thinking of the war agencies, by a reduction of 70% in the clerical personnel. This particular man had not been interested in the non-war activities. In some of them there should be a 100% reduction, because the work a few of them are doing there is not only the waste of the salaries, typewriters, stationary and free mail perquisites, not to mention the manpower, but the work done is actually harmful to the war effort.

Senator Millard F. Tydings, of Maryland, a Democrat, though it must be admitted that he was one of those Roosevelt tried to "purge" in 1938, declares:

"If I had the time—if I could be turned loose for one year—I could save a billion dollars in non-essential government expenditures, and release thousands upon thousands of government workers to America's war plants. Last July the sub-committee of the senate committee on appropriations analyzed the monstrous waste of human effort, and of machines, in official Washington. Nothing has been done to alleviate it. There have been virtually no reductions in the over-stuffed and duplicating departments. Mergers and consolidations take place, but the cumbersome managerial overhead remains."

SENATOR Tydings is absolutely right, but that is only half of the story. Within a few days a sizable division of one of the government agencies actually completed its work. There was not a thing for its many employes to do if the original purpose for which it was set up was adhered to.

A young man, of draft age, who had demonstrated ability in private employment and had been virtually drafted to help on this division's work, was complaining to the writer.

"I told my chief I would like to quit," he said, "now that all the work was finished. The chief was horrified. He said we must make any number of studies of possible situations in order to be prepared. That is the bunk, for no one knows now, or could possibly know for some little time after the war is over, what sort of studies with respect to our subject, would be helpful. Our division was created to work out a solution for a particular problem for the war emergency. Every lick of work we do from now on is sheer waste. But the chief wants to retain his own personal importance."

And they wonder why Washington has a housing and transportation problem!

Archbishop's Views On War Aims

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—The Archbishop of Caterbury, Dr. William Temple, tells me he believes Anglo-American friendship is one of the first needs in rebuilding the post-war world and he is concerned over a report he has received that the United States may draw away from this country because of Britain's trend to the "left."

When the archbishop speaks of the "left" he is not using the expression in the political sense but in its broad socialistic meaning. He has in mind England's social upheaval which is heading toward equal opportunity for all with special privileges for none.

His grace asked if there was danger of amity and co-operation between the two countries being harmed by this tendency.

I assured him that my observation led me to believe that the United States was surging forward with the times and that we should keep step with England in any humanitarian developments.

The Archbishop has a very special interest in this "leftism" movement in Britain because he himself is a vital part of it. In Dr. Temple we have a curious break in generations of conservatism which have occupied the primate's throne.

What I really called on the archbishop for was to get his views on the delectable subject of hanging Hitler and whether the Allies were fighting this war for Christianity—a matter of some debate in England.

Dr. Temple remarked that "Naziism is opposed to Christianity."

"It is an anti-Christian thing we are fighting," he said. "Naziism puts no limits to the state; that is to say, it makes it absolute. Christianity must resist that and insist that the state owes allegiance to God.

"Our civilization has many Christian features. The beliefs of civilized peoples are akin to Christianity though the ideas may have come from other religions. So we are fighting against an anti-Christian thing and for something which is in harmony with Christianity.

"However, we are not fighting for the Christian faith itself. Moslems, Hindus, Jews and followers of other religions are battling beside the Christians for civilization.

"To say, for instance, that we are fighting for the doctrines of the incarnation and the atonement would be nonsense."

Then arose the question of whether the Nazi all-highest must be removed from the picture in one way or another as soon as Germany has surrendered.

"I think so," said the archbishop. "But it may be difficult to hold trials which will give impartial justice.

"There is a danger of horrible massacres. . . . That is, this may happen unless the Allies can act in time to prevent it. Christian influence must be thrown on the side of justice."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Warlines from the Capital:

Wendell L. Willkie says Madame Chiang Kai-shek is the only celebrity he ever met who surpassed her advance billing.

The messenger service here has fallen to very low estate (Postal and Western Union deliver messages only now you know). Just how low was demonstrated the other day when a spry but slightly perturbed young negro came into the office with a sack dangling from each shoulder. Out of the left, he pulled the day's release from the Democratic national committee. Out of the right he dropped the day's handout from the Republican national committee. "All I gotta be sure of is that I leave one from each side at EVERY place I go," he explained.

I HAD hardly more than settled back in my taxi the other morning when the driver blurted out: "Man, that's the sweetest music I ever heard. As long as I can hear music like that, I'll never turn on my radio." I was already reaching for the door when I asked him just what the so-and-so he was talking about. He said: "Man, can't you hear it — the whine of these four new tires."

It was the same fellow who introduced me to one of the rationing board's sillier rulings. When casings and tubes are taken in for replacement examination, the patches on the tubes are counted. If you have seven or more patches okay—you get a new tube. If you have six or less, nix—you ride it out. "I had 21 patches on one tube, but only four on another. I figured that didn't add up," the driver explained, "so I just fished out my patch can and slapped three more on the tube that was short. I figured who's gonna pull off a patch to see if there is a hole under it. I was right."

ONE of the capital's amateur etymologists threw the press corps into a dither the other evening by asking why Guadalcanal isn't called Guadalcanar. As a matter of fact there's no good reason. When Alvaro Mendona, the Spaniard, first discovered the "Isles des Salomon" he christened the one in question: "Guadalcanar."

The islands were lost for 200 years until Philip Carteret rediscovered them in 1767. Subsequent French and British voyagers played around with the names. At one time the islands were called "Terre des Arscides" (Land of Assassins) and for years they were known as New Georgia.

When the British took over in 1893 and signed treaties establishing ownership in 1899, it still was Guadalcanar. Webster's continues to give the "a-r" spelling preference over the "a-l." The Encyclopedia Britannica is neutral, spelling it one way part of the time and vice versa.

But don't let it worry you. The army, navy and President Roosevelt call it "Guadalcanal." Mr. Webster and the encyclopediacs will be in line before this war is over.

Death In Young Hands.

If gasoline rationing does no more than reduce the comings and goings of irresponsible youngsters in their junker jalopies, it will be a great blessing.

The worst hazards on the streets and highways today are the carefree 'teen-age boys with money in their pockets and the wheels of their first automobiles under their hands.

They have been involved in accidents that are all out of proportion in number to those involving any other age group. The suffering and pain they have caused—not to mention monetary damage—is untold.

The blame is probably not so much on the eager but incapable young drivers as it is on their elders who let them get away with murder in motor cars.—Akron Beacon Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

'Dark and Dreary'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAD not slept well, and at morning I was still tired. I knew it would rain when I did the morning chores. The sky was gray and overcast, the wind was warm and changeable. It caught the scarlet leaves that clung to the wild cherry tree, and sent them twirling downward into the spring. It gusted through the yard, scattering the dead rustling leaves of the four big maples.

The melancholy mist that shrouded the hills crept in closer and closer to our own premises. Crows flew over silently—the morning mail plane passed above the low "ceiling" and made its presence real by its familiar roar.

In the sodden cornfield I picked corn for the hogs. Thankless brutes—they had devoured their rations and were rooting along the fence threatening to break out, if a meal was not forthcoming immediately. A raucous pheasant flew above the corn, protesting half the length of the field that I was robbing him. Heavy laden, I bowed beneath the bag of grain and envied him his easy faultfinding flight.

It was misting when I came up on the porch. The mist became a drizzle. A heavy rolling cloud came up in the west and the day was dark and darker. A chill came on the wind.

I tried to kindle a fire, but the furnace smoked. Chilled and damp, I stood at the window and watched the black thrashing limbs of the maples lose the last of their brilliant leaves. Then the panes were watered by such a smear of rain that I could not see anything clearly.

A blare of thunder and a sharp crack of lightning were followed by the bursting open of the door. The shaggy white dog that fears a storm unless in human company, came cringing in. I let him lie down in a corner, although usually I put him out. There was a kind of satisfaction in seeing gratefulness upon his dog face. I, too, was low in my mind. He seemed to understand it.

I had planned so much for today . . . now the rain spoiled everything. I sat down by the register. By a subtle change of temperature, I sensed that the fire I had made would probably burn pretty soon, even though the wood was damp.

The rain beat harshly and steadily on the cottage roof. The dog slept with his nose between his paws. I sat a long time, idly listening. It was autumn. It was winter coming on. It was sad . . . but what an ideal time to thoroughly enjoy being melancholy!

Ohio Dog Finds Alligator When Owner Gives Up

URBANA—(INS)—It is not the least bit unusual when a dog trees a racoon but when a dog trees an alligator, especially in Ohio, that is "news."

No trace of the alligator could be found, but a few days later the family dog raised a loud commotion some distance from the house and continued so loud and long that the cause was investigated. The lost pet was found cornered by the canine.

Every ballot is a bullet shot at the Axis— VOTING is your duty now!

Vote... vote fast... and get back on your war production work!

This is the urgent message of Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production Board!

Mr. Nelson says: "Voting is a duty, not a privilege. It is a duty, however, that is allowed only to free men.

"The right to vote is, in short, what this war is all about. It should be one of the very few exceptions to the all-important rule to staying on the job and getting the war materials to the battlefronts. The exception applies to all elections, national, State or local."

Your country...your United States of America...is the only country in the world today where men and women can go to the polls and freely choose their representatives for public office.

It is a sacred and exclusive freedom which should be dutifully appreciated by every man and woman eligible to vote.

The coming election may be the most important in the history of your United States. It will determine the power of Congress to help or hinder our war effort, and if the war should end in two years, to influence the tremendous responsibility of making the peace.

Vote on November 3...vote fast...and get back on your war production machines, your place of business or your farm. Every ballot is a bullet shot at the Axis!

This space is purchased and paid for by The American Majority, a national organization of civic-minded citizens working for the maintenance of American ideals. It is working to help end the war quickly . . . it is striving to help the public secure the fullest possible measure of constructive service from publicly-appointed office-holders it is helping the average man exercise his right to voice an opinion for the more economical and efficient control of local, State and national government.

AMERICAN VICTORY MUST BE WON IN AMERICAN HOMES

It is true today, more than ever before in history, that war must be fought and won by nations as a whole. Behind the fighting forces, behind military strategy and the central government, there must stand, strong and determined, a united home front

The woman who learns to sew for herself and her family . . . the woman who makes a serious study of food problems . . . who thriftily manages the family income so there will be a surplus to invest in War Bonds and future security . . . that housewife is fighting the war like any soldier.

She stands guard over the family pay envelope, using every penny wisely, buying only the things her family must have, and making sure they are of sound, durable quality

She turns instinctively to stores she can trust . . . stores that give her full value. She depends on stores like Penney's, whose avoidance of all unnecessary frills and price-increasing services, have always served her well.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"The waiter is one of Milner's most trusted men," Adams said. "So am I," he added with a wry smile, "but that Milner guy never lets anyone suspect what he gets away with. He never sends a tray back to the kitchen without rinsing out the coffee or teapot, and has a fit if anything is spilled on a tray. They call him fussy—and worse—in the kitchen. But they would think nothing of that particular tray going down with empty pot and cups. So I guess enough to get someone to sit with he's been just foxy instead of fussy."

My father drew a long breath and said:

"Well! We can't pin anything on him, but we can put on an act that may give him a qualm or two. But first, why did he want the young Veritzens out?"

"Ever since you've been here," Adams replied, "Milner's been trying to get a dictaphone put into this suite, but it's never left alone. Tonight I guess he figured was a good time to get the work done. But he told me to keep watch, and if you came back I was to warn the workers. I signaled them as soon as you rapped, and they left."

"You certainly did exactly the right thing," my father said warmly. "Now for our act. Remember, Adams, you didn't tell me a thing about conditions in here. We found them out ourselves."

"I understand, sir."

Then my father's glance swept the room, and I knew he was arranging his strategy.

"Margaret," he said, "take your place by Mary and try to rouse her. It might be well for you to weep a little. You must seem distraught about her when Dr. Twitchell comes in. Richard, you will be sitting by Noel's side, trying to rouse him. And Adams, you would better go back to the other suite. I'll tell Milner I sent you."

Adams hurried out and I sat down by Mary's side. I would need no histrionism to seem worried over her.

Dicky and my father went into the other room and I heard my father telephone, asking for Suite 1522, then break into apparently excited speech.

"Mr. Milner? Is Dr. Twitchell still there? Just going? Please put him on the telephone at once, and I shall want to talk to you later. Something has happened down here. No, no, I can't explain now. Put Dr. Twitchell on."

After an instant's pause I heard:

"Dr. Twitchell? Please come down to my daughter's suite immediately. I cannot explain now, but we have urgent need of you. Tell Mr. Milner to wait only long enough to get someone to sit with Redfield, then I want him to come down here also.

"No, I do not wish to talk to him now. Just deliver my message. Can you come down at once?"

After an instant's silence, I heard him say, as if to himself, "It will waken them all, but I'll have to do it."

He then turned to the telephone and called Philip Veritzen's suite.

"Mr. Veritzen?" he said and after a pause, "This is Charles Spencer. Terribly sorry to disturb you, but it is vital that you come down to my daughter's suite at once. No, nobody hurt.

"Yes, Noel and Mary are here, but I can't have them talk now. There isn't time. Don't alarm your wife or daughter, but get here as soon as you can."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DEFENDERS LIKE ALLIES

TWO PLAYERS on the defense, striving to defeat the declarer, are like a couple of allied nations engaged in war against a common enemy. To gain maximum results, they must work together, and to do that, each must help guide the other as to the moves he should make, and must keep his ally posted as to his own resources and weaknesses. Otherwise, the enemy can deal with them separately, just as a declarer can breeze on to his objective in many a bridge contract if his opponents pay no attention to each other's signals.

West practically played South's hand for him, by paying no attention to East's signals. The heart K brought the 4 from East, but West didn't shift. He scored the A and then turned to his partner's spade suit with the K. Again East gave him a low card, the 3. Disregarding this, he sent out his spade 9 to the A. Seeing that the defense he himself had in mind was wrecked, East decided West must have some trump high enough to score with an overruff, but not adequately guarded for a trump trick, such as, perhaps, a singleton diamond K. So East returned a third spade.

South ruffed that with the 10, took in the diamond Q, A and K, led to the club A and discarded his losing clubs on two good spades, making his contract.

When West saw the heart 4, his move was to switch suits at once. When two tricks later East used the spade 3, there was no further doubt about the correct switch. It should have been to clubs. Even the late switch would have set the contract one trick, as only one club loser could have been discarded then, on the heart J, before spades were set up. But an immediate switch to a spade, followed by an immediate one to a club—really the sounder bridge, would have beaten the contract two tricks.

HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30

CONFLICTING testimonies are found in this day's astral forecast, with many prospects of progress and achievement but not without difficulties of a swift and sudden advent calling for sound judgment, tact and common sense to vanquish. Writings, documents, contracts, any sort of papers or correspondence as well as oral agreements may be at the root of trouble, with trickery, deception or irregularity involved. With caution, vigilance and sagacity this may be averted and some very definite gains secured.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which a tricky and treacherous chain of circumstances may demand an unusual degree of vigilance, cleverness, sagacity and good common sense if snares, pitfalls and loss are to be avoided. Writings, correspondence, documents as well as oral contracts are at the source of this danger, with fraud, loss, misrepresentation and wordy wars to be nipped in the bud. With all this, there is promise of expansion, success and growth, on fairly sound and enduring foundations for the future. Cultivate those in power for friendship and assistance.

A child born on this day should have a keen and able mind, with some worthy ambitions, but a tendency to expediency rather than principle may lead on to reversals and discredit in life.

CHAPTER INSPECTED.

Chapter A T of P. E. O. was inspected by the state organizer Wednesday at a luncheon-meeting held at the Women's Club. Mrs. Ben R. Conner, of Ada, state president, and Mrs. N. H. Maynard of Columbus, state organizer, were guests.

WAR WORKERS' DRIVING HIT

Traffic Engineers Say Some Get 'Inflated Ego' and Drive Carelessly.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Traffic engineers told the National Safety congress yesterday that war workers with a "big shot" complex have become the nation's worst traffic law violators.

Safety authorities at the congress' 31st annual meeting said some war workers believe their employment in essential industry makes them immune to arrest for speeding and recklessness.

Harold Anderson, Kansas City police chief, said that doubled and tripled wages have inflated the ego of many war workers and made them dangerous drivers.

"The only way to keep them in line is not to relax traffic law enforcement," he said. "These people, and the people they might injure, must be protected both for their own sake and for the sake of the whole war effort."

Claude R. McCamment, safety engineer of the Kansas state highway commission, said that "by some strange psychological process, a certain group seems to believe that because it is engaged in government work it can commit traffic violations at will and remain above and beyond any local enforcement."

Acting as master of ceremonies will be John Tatakis, club treasurer, and Betty Pfleiderer, secretary, will have charge of the reception to be held afterwards in the apartment rooms of the home economics department.

The Sanitary Line is the Clorox Line... and Clorox is free from caustic ... Extra-Gentle!

BACTERIOLOGICAL examinations show that soiled cottons and linens often harbor dangerous germs. Why take unnecessary chances, especially today when home health defense is so essential to national defense. Clorox in the rinse not only makes white cottons and linens snowy white, fresh-smelling, but more important, sanitary; also brightens fast colors. Let Clorox provide greater health protection in your home ... use Clorox regularly in laundry, kitchen, bathroom. Simply follow directions on the label.

PRAISE THE WPB! ZOOT SUIT'S OUT

Simplification of All Men's and Boys' Clothing Ordered.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The zoot suit has finally came to an end with imposition of War Production Board restrictions on the cut of men's and boys' clothing made from all kinds of cloth.

The WPB order requires simplification of clothing produced from non-wool materials. Previously the WPB had banned the manufacture of zoot suits—tent-like coverings generally inhabited by jitterbugs—from wool cloth. The new order extends the restrictions to other materials.

TAKE KNUCKLES

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(U.P.) Watt A. Stringer, 42, construction worker, carried a pair of brass knuckles 17 years with the intention eventually, he told the police, of presenting them to an Idaho museum as soon as he had enough money to send them there.

The police will hold the knuckles until he or the museum gets the money.

TEACHES GEOGRAPHY

LOS ANGELES—(INS) Declaring that "there's nothing like war to teach geography," Dr. Frederic T. Blanchard, English professor at U. C. L. A. said today that Americans are learning to pronounce foreign names as never before.

Tyger Coaches See Chance to Win Tilt From Trojans

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"I only hope that when they lick us 32-0 that you will consider it a moral victory."

That was Coach Elwood Kammer, of Massillon Washington high school, talking to the Massillon Boosters club.

Kammer was referring to the fact that all of Mansfield considered the fact that Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers held Massillon to less than 40 points a moral victory for the fighting Mansfield club — a reaction that represents a desirable attitude on the part of the Mansfield fans.

The Tygers gained nothing but approval and praise from their supporters for the battle they waged against odds in the Massillon game—even though the score was 32-0.

Massillon, realizing its position in the national sports spotlight, long has worried about how it would act—whether it would show true sportsmanship—on that day when its Mighty Tigers go down in defeat to end their long unbeaten record which has now reached 49 games.

Massillon fans partially answered that question a year ago when, after Mansfield had tied the Tigers 6-6, the biggest attendance of the season turned out for the next meeting of the Massillon Boosters club.

But the worry hangs on, and is reflected in Kammer's comment: "I only hope that when they lick us 32-0, that you will consider it a moral victory."

* * *

"We got every point we could," Kammer told the Massillon Boosters. "Mansfield was underestimated by most people."

And Kammer declared that the Tigers' greatest enemy is this underestimating of an opponent. "It doesn't take a good team to lick you," said the Massillon mentor. "I know this from experience. Sometimes a team can put everything it has into one game and beat you, even though it may lose all other games on the schedule.

"We coaches consider every team a worthy opponent," Kammer continued, "and try to impress this on the players. We are having a hard time making some of the players believe an opponent is tough. They even smile sometimes when we tell them that.

"We sincerely believe that every team is able to beat us unless we take the game seriously. We know that they concentrate on our game. A little mud, or perhaps loose ball handling such as we had Friday night, and anything can happen."

* * *

Coach Paul Snyder has his own explanation for the fine showing his Tygers made against Massillon: "We were hopped up for that game, and Massillon was taking it in stride as just another ball game. It only shows what a lot of difference a little fight can make in a ball game."

Gophers Look For Hard Game

Northwestern Losses Not In Line With Dope.

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— Although Northwestern is a four-time loser this year, Minnesota can expect a real battle from Lynn Waldorf's eleven when the teams clash here Saturday, if the records mean anything.

Since Waldorf took over at Evanston in 1935, the Wildcats have defeated Minnesota three times, with the first victory, in 1936, ending the Gophers' string of 21 straight wins and 28 without a defeat.

* * *

Those three wins give Northwestern the best record of any of Minnesota's opponents in the last seven years. The Gophers won the other four, but the advantage might easily have been reversed since the last two Minnesota victories were one-pointers. In the seven contests, Minnesota scored 59 points and the Wildcats 58.

Minnesota will be seeking its second western conference victory in three starts, while Northwestern has lost three straight in the league.

Missouri Leads In Offense

Ohio State Drops To Second In Statistics.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Don Faurot, the lanky, lantern-jawed University of Missouri football coach, today enjoyed a long-awaited bit of gridiron vengeance.

The latest release of the American Football Statistical Bureau provides it by showing Missouri leading the nation's major colleges in two departments—total offense and rushing. The accomplishment is doubly sweet from Faurot's standpoint because his Tigers replace Ohio State as the leader.

Faurot has three excellent reasons for remembering Ohio State. His 1939 team lost to the Bucks for its only defeat. The same thing happened in 1941. In between these setbacks Don had been a candidate for the Ohio State coaching job when Francis A. Schmidt was fired at the conclusion of the 1940 campaign, but the post went to Paul Brown.

* * *

Missouri has made a steady climb to the top in total offense. In the first tabulation the Tigers were sixth, the following week they climbed to fourth and from that spot hopped into the lead.

Missouri has won five of its six games and rolled up an aggregate of 2605 yards for an average of 434.2 per contest. The Tiger total is the result of 2023 yards gained by rushing—tops in that listing—and 582 yards by passing.

Georgia's undefeated team is second in total offense with an average of 431.2 yards per game. Tulsa is third with 419.5 yards. Ohio State fourth with 414 yards and Texas fifth with 388.2 yards.

Ohio State is the runnerup to Missouri in rushing with a per game average of 329.2 to the Tigers 337.2. Hardin-Simmons is third, Brown fourth and Texas fifth.

Columbia remains the best passing team with 56 completions out of 121 tosses for an average gain of 212 yards per game. Tulsa is second, Georgia third, Southern Methodist fourth and Northwestern fifth.

Defensively Tulsa is tops. In total defense the team has yielded an average of only 84 yards per game and its pass defense has permitted five opponents an average of only 25.4 yards per game.

* * *

Detroit is the runnerup in total defense, with Vanderbilt third, Alabama fourth and William and Mary fifth. On pass defense Harvard holds second place, North Carolina State is third, Temple fourth and Oklahoma A. & M. fifth.

The best punting team is Texas with an average of 41.5 yards on 31 kicks. Tennessee is second, Tulsa third Rice fourth and North Carolina fifth.

Frankie Sinkwich of the University of Georgia continues as the individual leader in total offense. He has gained 1170 yards in six games. Paul Governali of Columbia is second with 970 yards in five games and Bob Steuber of Missouri third with 883 yards in six contests.

Steuber leads in individual ball carrying with 635 yards on 67 efforts. Rudy Mobley of Hardin-Simmons is second and Gene Fekete of Ohio State third.

* * *

Ray Evans of Kansas paces the forward passers with 59 completions in 130 tosses and Roy McKay of Texas is first among the punters with 46.3 yards average on 21 kicks.

Whirlaway Boosts Record Earnings

PIMLICO, Md. —(U.P.)— A $10,000 "walkover" victory in the sixth renewal of the Pimlico Special boosted Whirlway's record to $538,336 today.

* * *

The Calumet Cannonball and seven other horses, including Alsab and Shut Out, originally were entered in the race but the others withdrew and all Whirlaway had to do was circle the track alone to take the prize.

* * *

Fighting a tight rein held on him by Georgie (The Iceman) Woolf, Whirlaway whirled around the mile and three-sixteenths in 2:05 2-5. The time was slower than when he carried his devil's red silks to victory over the same distance at Pimlico to win the 1941 Preakness and the 1942 Dixie handicap.

Brown Worries About Bucks

Frosh Show Up Varsity in Ohio State Practice.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes after four days of sluggish practice, leave tonight for Madison, Wis., to take on the unbeaten Wisconsin Badgers in one of the top games on the Big Ten card this week.

Coach Paul Brown, dissatisfied so far this week with the Bucks' defensive tactics against Wisconsin plays, sent his gridders through a hard two and a half hour practice session last night as final defensive preparations were made.

"We don't look good at all and I'm worried about it," Brown said. "If those Badgers run over us the way the freshmen did last night, we're going to get ourselves fixed."

The freshman squad, using Wisconsin plays, riddled the varsity line. The Buckeye first, second and third team offensive drills also looked "very poor," Brown said.

At right end Steinberg will alternate with Cecil Souders and Bob Shaw.

The Bucks appeared likely to go into the Wisconsin game Saturday almost entirely free of injuries. Dante Lavelli, injured left end, has been pronounced fit enough to play Saturday, leaving only Bill Durtschi on the sidelines.

Rickey Appointed Boss of Dodgers

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Branch Rickey, pioneer of farm system baseball, was named president and general manager today of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the team his St. Louis Cardinals beat out this year for the National league pennant.

The appointment had been expected ever since Larry S. MacPhail resigned the posts to become a lieutenant-colonel in the army last September.

Rickey will take over the club Nov. 1 under a five-year contract, the terms of which were not disclosed. It was understood, however, that the terms were similar to those he received with the Cardinals this year—a salary of $50,000 and a bonus arrangement which brought his total to $80,000.

Rickey, whose five-year contract with the Cardinals expired this season said the agreement with the Brooklyn board of directors was "concluded at midnight last night."

He said he would represent Brooklyn at the major league meetings in Chicago in December but declined to comment when asked if Leo Durocher would be retained as manager. There is a possibility Durocher will join the navy.

Says Official Booted One

Wrong Decision Came on Minnesota Dropkick.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Now that most everyone, including Referee James Masker and Commissioner John L. Griffith, has had a say in the controversial drop kick episode that ultimately brought Minnesota a 16-14 win over Michigan Saturday, the case was closed today—and Michigan still was without a victory over the Gophers in 10 years.

Masker last night admitted a lapse in not calling a five yard penalty on Minnesota for too many times out in the last nine seconds of the first half, when the disputed play occurred, but he did not concede that the failure altered the game's outcome.

Griffith, Western Conference commissioner, in a statement said that "College games are never played over and scores are not reversed, no matter what may have happened, once the game is ended."

In his statement, however, he concluded after hearing reports and studying movies of the game that ommission of the penalty (for taking time out to substitute after Minnesota already had exhausted its legal limit of three) was the only deflection in the sequence of happenings.

Michigan officials contended that had the penalty been assessed with the clock ticking off the final seconds, Bill Garnaas would not have had time to kick the goal.

Tiger Outfielder Accidentally Shot

DETROIT —(AP)— Ball player Barney McCosky, thankful that his injuries were no worse, had a date at Henry Ford hospital today for removal of three shotgun pellets from his face and head.

* * *

The Detroit Tiger outfielder, who said he had feared his eyes were periled, was in the road of a companion's fire while the two were hunting pheasant near Bad Axe on Tuesday and was struck with part of the charge.

* * *

Two pellets which struck just beneath his left eye were taken out. Three others lodged in his forehead, an ear, and the side of his nose.

NAMED CAPTAIN

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(INS)—That Purdue will take to the air Saturday was indicated today with the appointment of Fred Smeke, end, who has gathered in nine passes for 162 yards this season, as captain for the Boilermakers in Saturday's Iowa game.

Portsmouth Boasts Edge In Experience

Good Line, Fast Backfield Make Visitors Dangerous Friday Night

IT ALL DEPENDS on how you read the dope sheet for that homecoming game at Stadium field tomorrow night when Mansfield high school's Tygers meet Portsmouth's Trojans. You can pick either team to win and have sound reasoning to support your judgment.

Take it this way: Mansfield 6, Springfield 0; Springfield 26, Portsmouth 7. These comparative scores, only ones available between the two teams, indicate Mansfield should win by anything up to 25 points.

And then look at it this way: Mansfield lost 17 players off the top of its undefeated squad of 1941, has an admittedly green team left; Portsmouth has 16 lettermen back from last year, boasts of one of the best lines in that section of the state. This difference in experience and strength favors the Trojans.

"We believe we have a good chance to win this game," is the opinion of Coach Paul Snyder of the Tygers, and of Scouts Vern Hoffman and Harry Mehock, who have seen Portsmouth in action.

But the scouts warn that Portsmouth is not to be taken lightly, that the Trojans have a well balanced team in size, weight, and experience, and several fast boys in the backfield who can carry the mail.

Outstanding star is Lloyd Flamer, colored halfback, who has been handicapped by injuries. Boling, his first replacement, also is a real threat, and Jones at the other half also is ranked as a star.

Starting Portsmouth lineup averages 169 pounds, with no one under 160, and only one player hitting the beams at 200.

The Portsmouth record thus far:

19—Akron South	14
9—Columbus East	0
12—Dayton Roosevelt	13
7—Springfield	26
27—Huntington East	2
0—Middletown	12

Portsmouth lost the Dayton Roosevelt game in the last quarter, and Trojan fans still do not believe the Springfield score. In the Springfield game, Portsmouth was penalized over 100 yards, with 70 yards in penalties coming in the first quarter, and two Springfield touchdowns were set up by penalties.

Fail to Take Kickoff Ball

Appleseed Hands Foe Easy Touchdown.

Inexperience proved costly to Johnny Appleseed junior high gridders yesterday as they dropped a 7-19 decision to Galion at Stadium field.

Galion scored twice on fleaflicker passes which a more experienced team might have stopped. And then came the clowning error in the last quarter when Galion kicked off over the Appleseed goal line, and the Pioneers failed to cover the ball for a touchback. Galion recovered it for a touchdown.

Appleseed scored in the second quarter after playing most of the period in Galion territory. Herrick bucked over from the five yard line, and then plunged for extra point.

Pastor and Conn In Top Rating

Service Men's Crowns Frozen For Duration.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Private Billy Conn and Bob Pastor are the "logical contenders" for Sergt. Joe Louis' heavyweight championship crown, the National Boxing association reported today in announcing that top-ranking fighters now in the armed services shortly would be placed in a special "honorary class."

Abe J. Greene, NBA president, said that in December the association would announce plans for listing "duration champions and contenders."

* * *

These ratings, Greene declared, will be based on a policy of "freezing" for the duration the titles of men in the service. He added that such a system would prevent "injustice" to champions now in uniform and would prevent appropriation of boxing crowns by self-declared champions or by dictum of any individual athletic commission.

In again listing Conn as the No. 2 heavyweight, the NBA made no reference to the scheduled Louis-Conn scrap of three weeks ago, which Secretary of War Stimson cancelled.

The NBA ranked Pastor as the leading "out-of-the-service" heavyweight, ignoring both his recent defeat at the hands of Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland and Bob's announcement three days ago that he was retiring from the ring and planned to enter some branch of the armed forces.

The NBA explained that Bivins' win over Pastor was registered after the Oct. 19 deadline for contests to figure in the rankings. Bivins was listed as the No. 2 light heavyweight.

Melio Bettina was placed at the top of a group of five "outstanding boxers" in the heavyweight class, but the NBA noted that his army service probably would prevent any ring activity on his part "which leaves competition principally in the hands of Lee Savold and Tami Mauriello," who are booked to meet tomorrow night.

* * *

Manuel Ortiz, whose victory over Lou Salica has been recognized by the NBA, was ranked the No. 1 bantamweight for the only change in title classification in the new ratings.

* * *

Henry Armstrong, the old "perpetual motion" specialist, came back to gain the fourth slot among the NBA-ranked welterweights, coming behind Freddie Cochrane, Ray Robinson and Fritzie Zivic. Armstrong whipped Zivic in San Francisco Tuesday night in the most significant step of an amazing comeback campaign.

The ratings:

Heavyweight: Champion, Louis, Army. Logical contenders, Conn, Army; Pastor, New York. Outstanding boxers, Bettina, Army, Savold, Des Moines, Ia., Mauriello, New York, Roscoe Toles, Michigan, Pat Valentino, Coast Guard. Honorable mention, Turkey Thompson, California, Buddy Baer, California, Tony Musto, Illinois, Connie Nordon, California, Harry Babo, Pennsylvania, Buddy Scott, Texas.

Light heavyweights: Champion, Gus Lesnevich, Coast Guard. Logical contenders, Bivins and Ezzard Charles, Ohio. Outstanding boxers, Billy Soose, Navy, Tommy Fuscia, Navy, Freddie Mills, England, Ken Overlin, Navy, Anton Christoforidis, Greece.

Middleweights: Champion, Tony Zale, Navy. Logical contenders, George Abrams, Navy; Tony Martin, Coast Guard; Nate Bolden, Illinois. Outstanding boxers, Ernie Vigh, New York, Coley Welch, Coast Guard, Freddie Apostoli, Navy; Holman Williams, Michigan, Charles Burley, Pennsylvania; Olivera (Kid) Tunero, Puerto Rico, Steve Belloise, Navy.

Welterweights: Champion, Cochrane, Navy. Logical contenders, Robinson, New York, Zivic, Pennsylvania; Armstrong, California, Marty Servo, Navy, Jackie Wilson, Army.

LEAHY RETURNS

Series Star Gets Navy Okay

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Having tried to apply common sense to football predictions for several weeks, and having fallen somewhat short of perfection, this dept. is inaugurating a new system this week.

Duquesne vs. St. Vincent (Friday)—One of Duquesne's halfbacks is Goode. So is Duquesne—too good for St. Vincent.

Colgate vs. Holy Cross—We're always mistaking Colgate's Al Hanover for a trotting horse because of his name, but we understand he's a runner. Maybe Al will pace the Red Raiders to victory.

Oklahoma vs. Iowa State—Word from the southwest is that the Sooners' prospects depend on whether Hamm is hot. Veteran sandwich eaters tell us cold Hamm is just as good. Anyway, we'll string along with Oklahoma whether Hamm is hot or roasted.

Pennsylvania vs. Army — The Penn is mightier than the sword.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

William McG. Keefe, New Orleans Times-Picayune: "Chancellor O. C. Carmichael of Vanderbilt said that the students attending the university without a serious purpose should enlist in the armed forces before sundown. He probably was referring to those students who make up the football squad, because we notice his suggestions came right on the heels of that 33-0 pasting Mississippi State dished out."

TRY NEW PLAYS

MADISON, Wis. — (INS) — New plays designed to add effectiveness to Wisconsin's aerial attack were being polished up by the Badgers today in preparation for Saturday's encounter with Ohio State. Four reserves, Lloyd Wasserbaen and Dick Thornally, tackles, Henry Ashanski, end, and John Roberts, guards, are being groomed for action against the Buckeyes.

TAKE TO AIR

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (INS) — Coach Bo McMillin was convinced today that the only way to defeat the Iowa Seahawks is to pass them dizzy. In drill, the Indiana Hoosiers worked on a dazzling set of aerial plays with Billy Hillenbrand, Jimmie Dewar and Boo Cowan throwing the ball.

LINE BATTLE LOOMS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (INS) — A battle of 60 minute lines was anticipated today when Illinois invades Michigan Saturday. The Wolverines seven ironmen showed their first sign of tiring in the Minnesota game last week-end, and the lack of line reserves still was troubling Coach Fritz Crisler. Bob Wiese, injured first string fullback, was expected to be in shape for the game.

HANDYMAN MOVED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — (INS) — Herman Frickey, Gopher handyman, was working out today in the left halfback position in place of Bill Daley who may not be able to start for Minnesota against Northwestern Saturday. The Gophers took to the air yesterday with Frickey and Joe Silovich doing the pitching.

PAINTINGS SAFE

TOLEDO — (INS) — Forty-five fine contemporary British paintings which crossed sub-infested seas last summer are being shown for the first time in the United States at the Toledo Museum of Art.

BACKS INJURED

EVANSTON, Ill. — (INS) — With their starting backfield still unable to participate in contact work because of injuries, the Northwestern Wildcats strove to develop a ground attack today in preparation for the Minnesota game. The ailing first string backfield, Otto Graham and Nick Vodick, halfbacks, Lynn McNutt, quarterback, and Buskets Hirsch, fullback, appeared on the field yesterday for the first time this week.

ENTERS AIR FORCE

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Lou Stringer, second baseman for the Chicago Cubs, has applied for enlistment as a private in the army air forces and is scheduled to be sworn in next Saturday. He expects to be sent to an air base for [illegible]ning as a ground crew mechanic.

A London newspaper calls The Associated Press' letter to Joseph Stalin, which produced one of the most important documents of the war, a stroke of "journalistic genius."

Henry C. Cassidy, chief of the Moscow bureau of The AP, who wrote the letter, would call it just plain reporting—going straight to the source as AP men are trained to do everywhere.

To get dependable news AP men go to the top, whether it's in Moscow or Washington, on important war stories or on the smallest item in the day's report. And news sources at the top welcome the AP.

BAG LIMITS UP

Ohio Hunters Get Break This Season; Game Plentiful.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio hunters will get their first break in many years when the rabbit and pheasant season opens Nov. 20.

Possession limits have been doubled, allowing eight rabbits and four ring-necks in possession after the first day of the season. Limit also has been increased on grouse permitting two day's bag or four birds.

Hungarian partridges are the only game species in Ohio on the open shooting list that have not shown increases justifying the boost in possession limits. The daily bag limit on partridge will remain four with a possession limit of four.

ADDS 28 ACRES

London Prison Farm Now One of Biggest in Nation.

LONDON—(AP)—The Ohio State Board of Control has approved purchase by the state of a 28 acre tract of land adjoining 260 acres bought for the prison farm a year ago. Both are adjacent to the institution.

The London farm now comprises approximately 2350 acres of land, all in one tract, and the institution and farm are rated as one of the outstanding prison farms of the nation

The farm population now is 1725 with approximately 130 of the inmates located at the branch honor farm at Lebanon a 2200-acre tract once owned by the Shaker Colony of Ohio, and later operated as a farm by the Longview State hospital, Cincinnati.

REMAINING U. S., JAP CARRIER FLEETS BELIEVED ABOUT EQUAL

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The remaining aircraft carrier fleets of the United States and Japan were believed to be fairly evenly matched in the Pacific following heavy losses on both sides, including the sinking of the U. S. S. Wasp by an enemy submarine.

Loss of the speedy, 14,700-ton Wasp while she was engaged in covering the movement of reinforcements and supplies to embattled American-held Guadalcanal island in the Solomons brought to three the number of such American ships destroyed to date

Following disclosure of the sinking of the Wasp the navy announced that another unidentified American carrier was severely damaged in the furious battle raging around Guadalcanal in which two enemy carriers also were hit.

Previously, the United States lost the 33,000-ton carrier Lexington in the Coral sea battle and the 17,500-ton Yorktown in the Battle of Midway

Since the United States entered the Pacific conflict with seven known carriers, losses to date account for more than 50 per cent of the original strength destroyed or put out of action.

Japan's losses have been much greater—seven sunk, one probably sunk and nine damaged—but the enemy still is believed to have four to six carriers left, mostly small ones.

America's stepped-up shipbuilding program should give this nation a numerical superiority in the near future. The Essex and the new Lexington are being rushed to completion following their launching.

TWO INDICTED

Men Charged With Forging Ohio State Football Tickets.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Under indictment today by the Franklin county grand jury were Nathaniel Henderson, 30, and Vanward Fairrow, 47, both of Columbus, charged with forging tickets to the Indiana and Southern California football games

Police said Fairrow confessed he printed 250 tickets for the Indiana game and 600 for the Southern California game.
